CHICAGO CAR BILLS NOW LAW

CONGRESS GOES ON VACATION; STAKES FRANCE

Defers 400 Million Debt Payment.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

Washington, D. C., June 19.—(Special.)—Congress recessed for the summer today after approving President Hoover's recommendation that the French government be relieved of the necessity of paying approximately 400 million dollars, which is due on Aug. 1, in connection with its purchase of surplus war supplies.

A condition attached to the action is that the French parliament shall ratify the Mellon-Berenger debt funding agreement prior to Aug. 1.

Outside of the adoption of this resolution, congress accomplished little on its final day. The house discussed a resolution for two hours and then wasted considerable time while a quorum was being rounded up for a roll call. The senate adjourned in action on the resolution in the midst of an all afternoon debate on prohibition.

The senate will return on Aug. 19 to commence debate on the tariff bill which the finance committee is expected to have ready to report. The house recess will extend until Sept. 12. Between Sept. 23 and Oct. 14 the house will meet in perfunctory sessions twice a week under a resolution approved by the house today on the theory that the tariff will not be ready to go to conference before the latter date.

Debt Settlement. Considerable hostility toward the French debt settlement was shown in both houses. In the senate a separate resolution was adopted on the motion of Senator E. H. Snodgrass (Rep., Neb.), declaring that in effect the United States under the Mellon-Berenger agreement canceled the entire $230,777,000 of the principal and accumulated interest up to 1925 of the French debt. The payments to be made by the French government over a period of sixty-two years are merely the equivalent of annual interest payments of 2.17 per cent on the original sum, the resolution declares.

Senator Howell first offered this declaration in the form of an amendment to the resolution as adopted by the house. Senator Reed Smoot (Rep., Utah), chairman of the finance committee, who was in charge of the legislation, announced that he had no objection to the Howell amendment inasmuch as it merely stated facts. While it was being discussed word came that the house had taken final adjournment. Adoption of the Howell amendment thus would have meant the failure of the entire resolution and at the request of Senator Smoot, Senator Howell withdrew it and offered it as an independent senate resolution. The Republican leaders ofered no objection to it in this form.

U. S. Pays for France. Senator Howell asserted that his purpose was to serve notice to the French people that the charge that the United States has been a shyster in the collection of its debts is untrue.

"The facts ought to be known," said Senator Howell, "that France is not paying us enough to pay the interest which the American people are paying on the equivalent amount of money. The deficit is about $37,000,000 a year. In other words, the French debt is still costing us money and will continue to cost us money throughout the sixty-two years."

"The French debt agreement concludes the settlement of twelve debts. The total of the twelve debts is nearly twelve billions of dollars. Taking them altogether, we canceled twelve billion dollars and received only about 15 per cent interest on the total for 62 years. The average cost of money to the treasury today is about four per cent and the last certificates of indebtedness issued carry 5 1/2 per cent."

Funded in 62 Years. Under the terms of the Mellon-Berenger agreement the 400 million dollars which is due on Aug. 1 for surplus war supplies sold to France after the war is absorbed as part of the entire debt which is funded over a period of 62 years. The resolution approved today postpones the maturity date of the 400 million dollars until later than May 1, 1930, provided the French parliament ratifies within six weeks. It is understood parliament is preparing to take this action.

The extension until May 1, 1930, is to give congress opportunity to ratify the Mellon-Berenger agreement. The bill was at one time passed by the house, but was held up in the senate pending French action. If congress fails to ratify the French government will be obliged to pay the 400 million dollars next May.

BLOCKS HOOVER PLAN TO HELP ENFORCEMENT

Copeland Asks Law to Stop Killings.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., June 19.—(Special.)—Indignation against prohibition killings reached new high levels in the senate today.

During five hours of hectic debate, senatorial critics of the administration's "hair trigger" enforcement policies roundly denounced the killing of innocent citizens, causing such a furor that Republican leaders abandoned an attempt to pass the Jones resolution paving the way for transfer of prohibition enforcement to the department of justice.

An attempt on the part of senate wets to amend the Jones resolution to provide for a congressional airing of the prohibition shootings situation was directly responsible for the decision to delay voting on the measure until the senate reconvenes late in August.

Hoover's Request Refused. The Jones resolution provides for appointment of a joint committee of six to study the question of the reorganization and centralization of prohibition enforcement. Its enactment was specially requested by President Hoover in a message detailing the need for strengthening the border rum patrol.

As a result of the senate's failure to act on the Jones resolution today, transfer of prohibition activities to the justice department has been indefinitely postponed. The President had asked for appointment of the committee at once, so legislative action could be expedited when congress meets for the winter session.

During progress of the debate, which began at 12 o'clock, President Hoover was criticized for submerging the prohibition problem in the law enforcement commission, four senators attacked prohibition killings as murder and dry spokesmen defended administration liquor policies and "excess" dry killings.

Copeland Starts Fireworks. Senator Royal S. Copeland (Dem., N. Y.), who a year ago vigorously condemned the killing of Jacob D. Hanson, Niagara Falls victim of coast guard patrolmen, set off the initial fireworks in a two hour speech in which he denounced recent dry killings as outrageous and appealed to the senate to enact a remedy.

The height of the excitement came when Senator Harry B. Hawes (Dem., Mo.) bitterly denounced the use of shotguns in prohibition enforcement and offered an amendment to the Jones resolution providing for an investigation of all dry enforcement lawlessness and the publication of a report on the number of men, women, and children killed by dry officials.

Deer Has Better Chance. "A new type of crime has developed in this country since passage of the prohibition law," Hawes asserted. "These are the abuses committed by dry agents in enforcement of the law."

"These men have saved off shotguns to shoot innocent citizens, when everybody knows that a sportsman won't even shoot a deer with buckshot. I will vote for the Jones resolution if it is amended to investigate dry killings."

"I say that it is a crime for a prohibition agent to shoot at automobile tires, whether he uses a riot gun or a pistol. Any man who would fire at a tire while a car is moving is too stupid and arrogant to be a federal officer."

"No civilized nation, except in the very extremities of war, would allow the use of buckshot in armed conflict. A man would be ashamed to shoot a dog with buckshot, yet we find government agents employing riot guns to fire at automobile tires, and in that way place innocent lives in jeopardy."

Jones Resolution Dropped. As debate on the Hawes amendment continued, senate leaders realized the impossibility of passing the resolution without at the same time opening up the scope of the inquiry. Senator James E. Watson (Rep., Ind.), majority leader, finally asked Senators Jones to withdraw his resolution until the 19th of August, when he promised a vote would be taken. This was done.

"It is too bad," Senator Copeland said in beginning his attack on the administration's "hair trigger" policies, "that when any man rises to his feet and is not expected to live."

2 BOYS DROWNED AT JACKSON PARK, DIVERSEY BEACH

Walter Kennedy, 17 years old, 1331 East 70th street, was drowned early last night when he fell into the Jackson park lagoon from the ledge of a bridge on which he was seeking a better position for fishing. When Capt. Fred Stebbins and his coast guard reached the spot in answer to a summons from Eddon Wimmer, 17 years old, Kennedy's companion, they found the body caught in a row of piles.

Lincoln park life guards also succeeded yesterday in recovering the body of George Basile, 13 years old, 1532 Newport avenue, who was drowned on Tuesday at the Diversey parkway beach. Search for the boy's body was abandoned when he failed to return home Tuesday night after spending the afternoon at the beach.

RECOVER $18,000 STOLEN SILK ON TELEGRAM CLEW

Twelve cases of stolen silk, valued at $18,900, were recovered by police yesterday through tracing of a telegram dispatched by Abraham Lova, 532 Windsor avenue, to Grand Rapids, Mich., offering to dispose of the goods at a low price. Lova was questioned by Lieut. William Cusack and finally by the detectives to a junk shop at 1665 Frank street, where the silk was found in a loft. It had been stolen Feb. 15 by four bandits who held up John Dillila, a truck driver for T. Buettner, 315 West Adams street.

MOTHER TESTING A PISTOL SHOTS AND KILLS BOY, 3

Three year old Leonard Anzalone died in the county hospital early this morning from a bullet wound in his brain inflicted accidentally by his mother, Mrs. Jeanette Anzalone, 2515 Arthur street. The mother, who was in a hysterical condition, told the police that she was examining a revolver belonging to her husband and that she pointed it downward and toward a doorway and pressed the trigger. At that moment her child walked through the door and was shot.

The child was grazed by the wheel and is not expected to live.

Fear Murder of 12 Aliens on Smuggler

BY DEAN SANBORN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

HAVANA, June 19.—Rivaling stories of the pirates of the Spanish Main, whisper of murder and whose cruelties and pitiless butcheries fill pages of bloody history, the arrest today of four of the crew of the yacht "Delirio" as it entered the Almenares river after making a sensational escape Monday when ordered by secret police to halt, has uncovered a lurid story of crime.

Contraband liquor smuggling of aliens into the United States and the probable assassination of eleven aliens and a stool pigeon of the Havana police on the high seas, a quantity of liquor, to be landed on the Florida coast.

Maj. Trujillo gave the man $400 in marked bills to pay his passage to the United States. "This is a supposed smuggler," he said, "and he is to be landed on the Florida coast."

Maj. Trujillo gave the man $400 in marked bills to pay his passage to the United States. "This is a supposed smuggler," he said, "and he is to be landed on the Florida coast."

When the detectives approached the river bank, the captain of the yacht took alarm and put to sea at full speed in defiance of orders to halt and regardless of a shower of bullets. It is believed that Diaz was tied as soon as he boarded the yacht.

Slipper Tells His Story. Bernardo Sastre, skipper of the yacht, was brought before the police chief by his lawyer tonight. The skipper in picturesque language told of a quick trip from the Almenares river to Florida and back and how he fooled the slow moving coast guard boats off Florida with his speedy boat.

He added details of his landing a cargo of human freight and booze at a point near Key West known as La Herudum and freely admitted using the yacht for transportation of immigrants to the United States.

He grants, however, that he is doing Cuba a great service in so doing, for he is helping to rid the island of the objectionable element.

With regard to rum running, he persists it is not an offense here and is punishable only in the United States, where the liquor is landed.

A search of the launch tonight revealed a number of pocketbooks and clothing covered with blood as well as a bloodstained pillow. The police believe the smuggled aliens were murdered at sea and their money confiscated. It is understood the men paid $400 each for guarantee to land them in the United States.

QUICK ACTION OF MILKMAN SAVES FOUR FROM BOMB

Presence of mind of a Gary, Ind., milkman early this morning probably saved the family of Peter Blanco, 1374 Harrison street, in that city, from death or injury when a bomb was exploded at the front entrance of their home. The milkman in passing the home saw the sputtering fuse, rang a bell and yelled a warning to Blanco, his wife and two children, then hurried away. The bomb exploded just as the family fled through a rear door.

The front porch was blown off the house and part of the building wrecked. The damage was estimated at $2,000. According to the Gary police Blanco has been twice convicted of bootlegging, and the bombing was laid to rival bootlegging interests.

State's Attorney Swanson was informed at the treatment Blackwood reported he received.

"There is a peculiar angle there," he said. "After Blackwood's arrest, I was called in to see him. He told me he never saw any of the bandits again until he noticed Blackwood in the city hall corridor."

Tells Story of Robbery. Froemke said Blackwood came into his office and began talking about a golf club membership. Then he suddenly produced a revolver and said: "Give me that ring." Taking the ring and other loot, he fled. Froemke said he never saw any of the bandits again until he noticed Blackwood in the city hall corridor.

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northrup, who claims an acquaintance of twenty years with the accused man, declared the story of the charges against him is incredible. The state's attorney's investigation, it was said, will include an examination of Froemke's affiliations, political or otherwise, and a careful study of the influence or agencies that might have been affected by Blackwood's work on reorganization and tax fixing.

Church Unable to Find Site; Rejects Gift of $265,000

A special committee representing members of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Evanston last night voted to reject a gift of $265,000. An anonymous donor made the gift recently on condition that the church's site be moved from the present site at Church street and Hinman avenue. Unable to find another suitable site before June 30, the limit set, the committee was forced to reject the gift. They decided to build an addition to the church and erect a new parish house.

IN PASO, TEX., June 19.—[U. P.]—Two children were killed and at least 15 other persons were overcome by gas fumes tonight in a small community near two big oil refineries five miles east of here. A number of animals also were killed. The gas is believed to have been hydrogen sulphide.

Lawyer Held as Robber Blames Identity Tangle

Assistant State's Attorney Raymond E. Blackwood, freed yesterday on bond under three charges of robbery with a gun, insisted in his home last night that he is either the victim of an amazing case of mistaken identity or of a deliberate frameup. Blackwood said he was inclined to believe the latter theory, but he was unable to fix the responsibility, or to ascribe a motive.

Blackwood, who is 50 years old, lives at 7521 East End avenue with his wife and 5 year old daughter, Lenore. He has held public and semi-public positions for years and has borne a good reputation. Before entering the state's attorney's office he was secretary of the Civil Service Reform association.

Identified as Bandit. Blackwood was positively identified before Judge Edgar Jonas in the felony court yesterday by Frederick Froemke, 1709 West 16th street, and two other alleged robbery victims as the leader of three bandits who held them up on Froemke's real estate office on April 5 and robbed them of a diamond ring, several hundred dollars in cash and a number of checks.

State's Attorney Swanson, who placed Blackwood on his staff last March, was in court to express faith in his assistant and to cast his opinion in support of the frameup theory. And the presiding judge, as the testimony began, recalled Blackwood's last appearance in his court, two weeks ago, when he prosecuted two men who had taken money to obtain reductions in taxes.

After hearing Froemke's story, corroborated by George Zajac, 1317 West Chicago avenue, one of his employees, and Frank L. Zinger, 140 West 73d street, a customer in his office, Judge Jonas ordered the state's attorney to make a thorough investigation of all angles of the case and set a further hearing for June 28.

Swanson Raps Procedure. State's Attorney Swanson expressed himself as dissatisfied with the procedure followed in the case from the beginning. Blackwood, it was revealed, was arrested Tuesday morning in the city hall when Froemke happened to see him and pointed him out to a policeman. He was taken to Chicago Lawn station, he asserted, and held there until 9 p. m. before he was allowed to communicate with his attorney.

State's Attorney Swanson was informed at the treatment Blackwood reported he received.

"There is a peculiar angle there," he said. "After Blackwood's arrest, I was called in to see him. He told me he never saw any of the bandits again until he noticed Blackwood in the city hall corridor."

Froemke said Blackwood came into his office and began talking about a golf club membership. Then he suddenly produced a revolver and said: "Give me that ring." Taking the ring and other loot, he fled. Froemke said he never saw any of the bandits again until he noticed Blackwood in the city hall corridor.

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northrup, who claims an acquaintance of twenty years with the accused man, declared the story of the charges against him is incredible. The state's attorney's investigation, it was said, will include an examination of Froemke's affiliations, political or otherwise, and a careful study of the influence or agencies that might have been affected by Blackwood's work on reorganization and tax fixing.

ENTIRE TRANSIT PROGRAM WINS EMMERSON O. K.

Settlement Action Is Put Up to City.

Speed Car Settlement

Immediate action was promised yesterday by James Simpson, Ald. Joseph McDonough, and other leaders in drafting a settlement in accordance with the enabling legislation signed by Gov. Emmerson. Details on page 2.

BY PARKE BROWN. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Springfield, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson today did his part toward giving the city of Chicago its opportunity to solve its local transit problem.

He affirmed his signature, as had been forecast, to eight bills passed by the general assembly before it quit work eleven days ago which give the metropolis the power to bring about a consolidation of its surface, elevated and bus lines, merging the combination with a system of subways, and to authorize the consolidated interests to finance the development under local control.

The governor announced his decision at his afternoon press conference today, giving out a typewritten statement of the reasons for his action.

"Plainly My Duty to Sign." "I feel that it is plainly my duty to sign these bills," reads one of the concluding paragraphs.

The legislative program thus approved consists of all the bills originally included, with the exception of house bill 518, which was vetoed because of a typographical omission. Fortunately for the advocates of the program, this bill had been duplicated in house bill 484, fathered by Thomas Deuther of the Northwest Side Commercial association, whose thought was to strengthen out the construction of the cities and village act.

Thus, although Gov. Emmerson vetoed one of the original set of transit bills, he gave his approval to a bill of the same purpose which was minus the typographical omission. In other words, he gave blanket approval to the whole transit program.

Statement Published in Full. In doing so, the governor expressed a wish that the statement he had prepared on this subject be published. The statement follows:

"In my campaign for nomination and election I stated that the Chicago traction situation was clearly a local issue and that the people of the city and the traction companies should reach an agreement upon the required enabling legislation before asking the legislature for assistance. In the event of such an agreement, I promised to do all in my power to cooperate in the enactment of necessary laws. In my inaugural address I offered assurance that any agreed program would have the careful and helpful consideration of the administration and the general assembly.

On Dec. 6, last, Judge James H. Wilkerson of the United States District court, before whom receivership proceedings are pending involving one of the surface lines companies, appointed a committee of prominent citizens for the purpose of working out a definite plan of settlement upon which the city and companies would agree. The bills now before me, with the exception of house bills 518 and 737, are the result of the efforts of this committee.

Approved by City Council. The six agreed bills were drafted following numerous conferences participated in by representatives of the citizens' committee, the city and the traction companies. They were submitted to the city council for approval and were endorsed by practically a unanimous vote—only one vote being recorded against them.

"They were agreed to by the companies and were brought to Springfield by the citizens' committee and the local transportation committee of the city council and introduced in both houses of the general assembly on March 31.

"House bill 515 was presented by the city council without endorsement by the other parties at interest, but not opposed by them. House bill 737 was submitted after the program was agreed upon because it was thought that the spreading of the assessment for subway purposes over a longer period was desirable.

"The fullest opportunity was given to both branches for thorough consideration."

THE WEATHER

THURSDAY, JUNE 20, 1929.

eration of all of these bills. They were passed in the house by upwards of 110 votes and in the senate by 41 votes. They are introduced by representative civic and business organizations of the city as well as by the city council.

"The measures are properly safeguarded by provisions that any ordinance drafted under them must be submitted to a vote of the people before becoming effective. The bills do not in themselves settle the traction question and no settlement can be effected until the city council has agreed upon the terms of settlement and the people at a referendum have approved the action of the council."

"For many years the ideal of those who have made a study of local transportation in Chicago has been unification of surface and rapid transit facilities with subways in the congested area, on the basis of a unit fare with transfer privileges."

All Authority Provided.

"It is the belief of the citizens' committee and members of the city council that these bills give the city all the authority it needs to work out an adequate unification plan, which will provide the most comprehensive and economic transportation system of any large city in the world."

"Under their terms the city has the power not only to determine the details of the plan of settlement, but also to regulate operation, rates, and service and the right of purchase by the city, should that be desired, is protected. That authority, properly used, should be of the greatest value in providing for future growth of the metropolis and in giving the people improved transportation facilities at reduced costs."

"In the arguments of those who request the vetoing of the bills, no new facts have been presented which have not been fully considered by the general assembly prior to their passage. No good reason has been offered for setting aside the judgment of the city council of Chicago and the two houses of the general assembly."

"In view of these facts, I feel that it is plainly my duty to sign these bills."

Technically Causes Veto.

"House bill 513 is vetoed because the amendment it made in the cities and villages act is accomplished by Senator bill 484, which has been signed."

That paragraph of the governor's statement beginning "The measures are properly safeguarded," and referring to the referendum requirements in connection with a final ordinance, were heavily underscored in the copies given to the press."

During the press conference Gov. Emerson indicated that tomorrow he will pass on two other legislative acts of extreme importance to Chicago—The $27,000,000 non-referendum bill of the Chicago sanitary district and the increased tax rate for the Chicago Board of Education, which means approximately $25,000,000 increase in taxes during the next two years."

PROMISE QUICK ACTION

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Immediately upon the announcement yesterday that Gov. Emerson had signed the transit bills, Ald. Joseph McDonough (13th), chairman of the council local transportation committee, said that he would do his best to initiate action at once. He said that he would come in today from his country place at McHenry, Ill., and call a meeting of his committee for a session tomorrow."

James Simpson, chairman of the citizens' committee which materially aided in both drafting the bills and urging their passage, said that he will have a meeting of his committee today."

Simpson "Highly Pleased."

"I am highly pleased," he said, "to learn that the governor has signed the bills, because they open an opportunity to develop Chicago. I will ask our committee to assemble tomorrow afternoon. I prefer that the committee decide upon any extended comment which may be made."

Ald. McDonough talked more freely.

Supreme Court Takes Bus Home Rule Away from City

Home rule over motor buses was taken from Chicago yesterday by a decision of the state supreme court. In its opinion—the second time the high court has reversed itself on this subject—it is held that the city has neither the power to prohibit nor to regulate the operation of buses on its streets.

At the city hall it was explained that this new ruling does not affect the status of the city's control over street railways, because of a constitutional provision to the effect that the legislature may not pass any law granting permission for the construction and operation of "street railways" in any city without the consent of the local authorities.

Revert to First Opinion.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Leon Hornstein said the city will move for a rehearing on the latest ruling, which favors the bus company. The first opinion of the high court was that the city could operate through a certificate from the Illinois commerce commission and without a franchise from the city. A rehearing brought the contrary ruling and gave the city power to license and regulate bus operation, but yesterday the justices, after a second rehearing, reverted to their first opinion.

In its opinion yesterday the supreme court ruled that the commerce commission is without the arbitrary power it assumed when it granted authority to the Chicago

Motor Coach company to occupy Chicago streets where the Chicago Railway company is giving service. The case was sent back to the commerce commission with instructions that the street car company be given a hearing.

The two rulings are expected to reopen the feeder bus question, which is a battle on whether some sections of the city shall have a 7 cent fare, a 10 cent fare, or a 17 cent fare through the necessity of taking both a bus and a street car.

No Power Over Streets.

As the matter stood last night, and unless the supreme court again reverses itself, the commerce commission has sole jurisdiction over bus lines and the city may not exact compensation for the use of the streets. And, inasmuch as the commerce commission has once ruled that the street car company has not the right to operate buses beyond its tracks or in connecting car lines, the possibility of the coach company being granted the "feeder bus" privileges was foreseen.

Ald. Joseph McDonough, chairman of the local transportation committee, was not in the city yesterday but other aldermen said the fight will be carried on, both for feeder buses and for the right to control the city's right to control of its streets.

Another supreme court decision reversed a judgment for $88,089 obtained against the sanitary district by the Coal Creek drainage and levee district.

S. PARK BOARD WINS SUIT OVER BOND ISSUE VOTE

$15,500,000 Released for Improvements.

South park commissioners yesterday won an election contest suit that has tied up $15,500,000 voted on three bond propositions a year ago. Circuit Judge Philip L. Sullivan instructed the board's attorney to draw up a decree based on the court's revision of the recount figures.

The ruling gives the south park board power to use the proceeds of the bonds in its improvements, some of which are planned to serve the 1933 World's Fair. The board will negotiate for the sale of the bonds on the entering of the decree next week.

The issues were known as propositions A, B and C. The first provides $3,000,000 for improvements on the stadium, the second, $5,000,000 for small parks, and the third, $7,500,000, for boulevard improvements.

Suit Started Last July.

The issues were attacked in a taxpayers' suit brought July 7, 1928, by Attorney Hayes McKinney in the names of ten taxpayers. Five of these

It is now up to the city council to show its appreciation of the act of the governor and the general assembly," he said. "I am certain that we should start work immediately. It has been pleaded for years that we have not had sufficient power to secure the sort of local transportation the city needs. That reason has been wiped out. Every expert who has advised the city has said that we could not obtain the best possible transportation without a consolidation of the elevated roads and the surface lines and now under these bills, they can merge."

No Excuse for Delay.

"The companies are given the power to set up a financial structure which will get them credit on a reasonable basis. They can get the cash with which to make urgent extensions and needed improvements. They now have no reason to stall, sidestep or back up."

"The city council can have no excuse for letting the companies get away with procrastinations. They can compel action within a reasonable time."

"If these bills mean what I have been led to believe they mean, there is no reason why there should not be fair play on both sides. I want a fair and square ordinance which will bring an abundance of transportation of the right sort and at a reasonable fare, and that is the only kind of an ordinance which will get by, for the people must pass upon it."

Plan Program First.

The alderman said that he desired to talk with a number of his colleagues before announcing a tentative program. He thought last night that the first session of the committee would probably be devoted to formulating a program, the representatives of the companies to be called in later. He added:

"There will be no delay, if I can prevent it. You may be sure of that." The bills signed yesterday are the culmination of contests in the last three sessions of the legislature—at least, that is true of the terminable permit act.

The first bill authorizing an indeterminate franchise in Illinois was presented to the general assembly in 1925 by Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet. The protests were so strong against that bill that it was withdrawn without a vote. A legislative commission was appointed to investigate this form of franchise and report. The report was filed with the 1927 session.

At the general assembly the companies presented an indeterminate franchise bill. It passed the senate, but was so weighted down with amendments in the house that it was left to die.

At the session just closed the terminable permit bill, sponsored by the citizens' committee and endorsed by the city council passed both houses overwhelmingly. The companion bills, permitting the companies to consolidate, increasing the powers of the city to build subways and conferring home rule over transit matters, also received large favorable votes.

But the legislation has a longer history than attaches to the terminable permit crusade. When the 29 year franchise of the surface lines had run about half its term, the companies and city officials decided that a consolidation of both surface and elevated roads was the best practical way to improve the local transit facilities. The Parsons-Arnold-Ridgeway investigation at that time recommended that course.

To accomplish that end, it was proposed to have a consolidation under a trustee system and an ordinance on that policy was submitted to the voters for approval in 1918. It was defeated.

Dever Ordinance Defeated.

That next serious effort was the Dever ordinance of 1925. The city was nominally municipal ownership with an operating control in the hands of men selected by public officials. That

DOUBLE FINES IN TRAFFIC CASES BARED BY QUIZ

Examine York Center Justice's Records.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

Record of traffic arrests and fines found in the grocery store archives of Theodore Holt's York Center Justice court disclosed to investigators from the Du Page county state's attorney's office yesterday that the so-called "revenue center" was no misnomer. The docket, cash book, arrest book and receipt book of Justice Holt and his outside man, Motorcycle Cop Harvey Kinney, indicated that in this obscure crossroads on state highway 6 near Wheaton has been ground out a volume of business that would make a Chicago speed court envious.

"For awhile Constable Kinney and one of the state men seemed to be running a pinch contest," Sheriff Hatendorf said. "One day in particular he reported a tie, seven to seven."

Get Look at Records.

The investigation is being conducted by State's Attorney C. W. Reed and when the records were brought before him yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Gordon Leonard, the officer was trailed by Holt and Kinney who asserted that they were going to keep an eye on proceedings and see that no "skulduggery" was going on.

One of the first cases trans-

FILLING STATION AND GAS TANK MEN RATIFY 3 YEAR CONTRACT

There will be no interruption of gasoline supplies in Cook county on July 1.

Last night members of the Filling Station Employees and Tank Wagon Drivers' union met in union headquarters at 339 South Ashland avenue and voted to ratify a three year agreement with the large oil companies. This contract had been negotiated earlier in the day by Patrick Berrell of the Truck Drivers' union, who is also an official of the tank and filling station employees' organizations.

Terms of the new agreements provide a one week vacation period for the tank drivers this year and one or two weeks each year thereafter until 1932. This concession was not given to the 1,500 filling station employees. Berrell said there would be no wage increase for either the tank wagon drivers or the station employees. He said the oil companies wanted to lower the wages of the station employees $10. The latter now get $145 a month and a commission on sales of gasoline and greases.

Recorded from Holt's records was "Speeding and no light; two fines." Constable Kinney, whose gun work on an Iowa tourist lost him his job as a deputy sheriff motorcycle cop in Du Page county a couple of years ago, has been operating at York Center, practically without control. As a constable he is without any responsible authority to report to except the electorate. Shortly after dismissal from the sheriff's force he decided to run for constable and did so successfully.

The question of Kinney's "hot" automobile in which he chases in-offensive automobile owners in the name of the law was not taken up yesterday, but inquiry into the history of the car, it was announced, will be asked of the state highway police department. According to Kinney he "found" the car and decided to retain it on the theory that "findings is keepings." At the time he took possession of it the car had Colorado license tags. Yesterday the Dodge roadster had only one tag on it and that at the rear. It was number 885-743 and the record shows that number was issued to Nellie Kinney for a Packard automobile.

Constable Kinney, it was revealed by questions from State's Attorney Reed, has destroyed all arrest books covering past performances.

Imposes Two Fines.

Preliminary scrutiny of the records of Justice Holt, which were voluminous and covered a period as far back as Jan. 1, 1923, indicated a general practice by the court of imposing two fines on one complaint. Although names of victims were present in large numbers, the addresses apparently were forgotten when the entries were made.

"Reckless driving and speeding" were among the double charges on which two fines were imposed. In legitimate courts the "reckless driving" charge covers speeding. If any, though the law does not prohibit speeding as such.

Thus far disclosed in the investigation the biggest day's work done by Kinney in arresting motorists, as shown by the record, was nine arrests.

"On the face of the records," said Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the Chicago Motor club, which is pressing the investigation, "York Center seems to be one of the sweetest gold mines of the motor traffic racket. The volume of arrests made and recorded would be excessive in a community with a sizeable population instead of a crossroads with twelve inhabitants."

NEW YORK MELTS IN RECORD HEAT; MERCURY AT 92

California Suffers; 98 in Los Angeles.

New York, June 19.—(Special.)—New York's temperature again rose to record breaking heights today when it reached 92 degrees, the highest in the weather bureau's annals for the date. It was the seventh day of an unprecedented heat wave. The mercury wavered late in the afternoon when black clouds sprinkled a dipperful of rain over the city. Then it climbed again, but some relief is expected tomorrow.

Three persons died of the heat and one man tried suicide. Two men, seeking to escape from the sultry weather, drowned in the metropolitan area and in the greater city there were thirteen prostrations. Total deaths for the seven days reached nine.

35 in Flushing, N. Y.

Other nearby spots, including one in the greater city, Flushing, had hotter weather. Flushing reached the high point for the east, 95 degrees, according to the local observer for the weather bureau. Plainfield, N. J., had 93 degrees. The storm, which was only moderate in Manhattan, though it was heralded by thunder clouds as black as night, did much damage in the outlying districts.

Boston's renowned east wind suddenly came in from the sea in the early afternoon and relieved the city's suffering after two deaths were recorded. And, mercurially speaking, as Boston goes, so goes New England.

Schools had been closed in Lawrence, Mass., at noon when the thermometer read 95. Providence had the distinction of the highest 8 a. m. temperature of the country, 85 degrees.

And California Suffers.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 19.—(Special.)—Southern California's hottest June in years sent the thermometer on a rampage. The government forecaster recorded the heat as "a little over 92." Unofficial readings varied from 100 to 104 in different sections of the city. The hottest previous June was 102 in 1917. The sultry wave engulfed southern California with temperatures from 120 in the desert region to 100 degrees at Anaheim.

Four Drown in Indiana.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 19.—(Special.)—High temperatures throughout Indiana today caused five deaths. Grace McGowan, 13, and her sister, Fanny, 9, drowned in the Wabash river at Taylorsville. John Jenkins, 17, drowned at Bedford, and Robert Bailey, 15, drowned in Eagle Creek here.

PLEASANT IN CHICAGO.

With the east and most of the middle west suffering from sweltering temperatures, Chicago yesterday experienced mild June weather. The skies were fair and the temperature did not rise above 80 degrees all day. In the evening the temperature in the city dropped to 70 degrees, a cool wind blowing.

The beaches were well frequented, but most of those in bathing suits found it more pleasant to lounge on the sands than dip in the water. The weather forecast for today indicated there would be little change in temperature, with gentle to moderate winds from the south and southwest.

DENTIST HELD TO GRAND JURY ON SWINDLE CHARGE

Dr. Harold W. Stockton, dentist, 3202 Broadway, charged by Mrs. Lottie Brenner von Buelow, 5833 Sheridan road, with operating a confidence game and with attempted extortion, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Joseph Schuman of Town Hall court on the confidence game charge. Hearing on the other charge was continued till July 26.

Joseph Carriles, Mexican dental assistant, charged also by Mrs. von Buelow with attempted extortion, did not appear in court, forfeiting his bonds of $2,000. A capias was issued for him and his bonds increased to $10,000.

Mrs. von Buelow alleged that Dr. Stockton represented himself as a federal agent, threatened her with publicity and finally persuaded her to give to Joseph Carriles dental equipment with which she had outfitted Carriles' office in her building at Buckingham place and Clark street. Dr. Stockton denied that he had represented himself as an agent.

STRESEMANN AND
POINCARÉ AGREE
ON RHINE PARLEYSeek to Liquidate Final Scars of World War.

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
PARIS, June 19.—Two of the most interesting figures on the political stage of western Europe met over their coffee today, and the results of their conversation already loom large in the political considerations of this continent.

French from his conversations with the genial, optimistic Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, at Madrid, where many cordialities had been exchanged on the subject of evacuation of the Rhineland and the large outlay of the great conference to liquidate the problems were sketched. Gustav Stresemann, foreign minister of Germany, came to Paris today to confer with a man who, like himself, is one of the realists in twentieth century politics, Raymond Poincaré, premier of France.

It was quite proper M. Briand who gave the German foreign minister a superb luncheon served on silver gold china service in the Quai d'Orsay banquet hall, with all the pomp of which the French are capable. And it was quite characteristic that M. Poincaré arrived in time for coffee and liqueur—which he does not drink, by the way—actually to do the day's business.

Agree on Parley of Powers.

M. Briand at Madrid could only promise. M. Poincaré got down to bedrock in his 45 minutes' talk with the German minister, and although the greatest secrecy was maintained by both parties to the convention so that Herr Stresemann will be the first to convey the results to his own government, this much is evident.

The conference that will set the Young reparations plans in motion and try to iron out the batch of wrinkles left in the face of old Europe by the war will convene far earlier than planned originally, perhaps early in July.

Asks O. K. on U. S. Settlement.

Premier Poincaré left the Quai d'Orsay at 2:30, walked twenty yards to the chamber of deputies, and there addressed the "little parliament," in the shape of eighty members of the foreign affairs and finance commissions of the chamber. He urged ratification of the Mellon-Berenger and Cullax-Churchill debt accords. This was a secret session, too, but enough leaked out to show that an entirely new complexion had been put on the problem by what had just passed between the two statesmen and door.

Premier Poincaré told the two commissions that the great liquidation conference would be called soon so as to enable the chamber of deputies and the reichstag to ratify the Young plan in good time for it to go into effect on Sept. 1 and for the former body to put its O. K. on the debt agreements.

Rape Deal with America.

With characteristic thoroughness M. Poincaré merely started today what is destined to be an expose of the whole problem that will carry discussion into next week and probably postpone preliminary debate on the subject.

For his prologue today the premier

Her $250,000 Suit on Trial

MISS ANN LIVINGSTON.

had a cartload of documents brought in and traced the history of the French debts. To the dismay of the anti-ratificationists, he made clear that both the London and Washington debts had been legally contracted with the consent of parliament, and gave as an instance a report on the subject by M. Marin, who today is one of the fiercest opponents to ratification. He wasted no affection on Uncle Sam. In his dry, sharp tones he said, "It is certain that we did not obtain as satisfactory a settlement as we should have. The United States thinks it is generous, but this is difficult to admit for a man with a French outlook. If we had to negotiate all over again today, we should come out even wiser, and I take the responsibility for saying that there isn't a politician anywhere in the country who would undertake new negotiations." He quoted a statement President Hoover is supposed to have made in 1921 to the effect that it makes no difference if the debt has moral foundation so long as it is actually owed. "It is actually owed, and there is nothing to do about it but pay," he said with great firmness.

11 Killed, 26 Hurt, in
Belgian Rail Disaster

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
BRUSSELS, June 19.—Eleven were dead tonight and 26 injured, some of them in a desperate condition, as the result of a railroad disaster today near Grammont, 21 miles from Brussels. All of the victims are working men and women who had taken the morning train to their factories outside the capital. Investigation has revealed that the rails gave way under one train, throwing it on its side directly in the path of a second train approaching at full speed.

DAWES' SPEECH
WARMS BRITISH HEARTS FOR U. S.Approval Unanimous for Naval Cut Plan.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, June 19.—Not since the stirring days of 1917 when America entered the war at England's side has America been so popular in England as today, and by coincidence the same man who is America's mouthpiece today, Charles G. Dawes, was then lieutenant colonel of the engineers in the first contingent of American troops to land in England.

Today Gen. Dawes' pipe and Gen. Dawes' smile were pictured in every newspaper, and stories of him printed and told everywhere. Last night's speech at the Pilgrim society was unanimously pronounced by the press to be excellent. Every paper in Great Britain, irrespective of politics, praises it and hopes that Gen. Dawes and Prime Minister MacDonald will succeed not only in lifting the burden of armaments from the necks of the taxpayers, but in restoring real friendliness between Great Britain and America.

Want New Parley to Succeed.

Two points were stressed in Gen. Dawes' speech last night. One was the reference to America's tremendous commitments for armaments and a hint of the President's power to suspend expenditure if he is convinced of a reasonable chance of the other nations agreeing to disarm or reduce their armaments on a substantial scale.

The other was Gen. Dawes' opinion of the place of experts in international negotiations. It is almost an article of faith with the British public that the Geneva conference failed because the British and American experts refused the slightest compromise with each other, and the British are determined that this will not happen again. They are in full agreement with Gen. Dawes that the place of the admiral is in the anteroom from where he can be called to elucidate any technical points which the statesmen wish elucidated—while they do the conferring.

Wait Next Step.

Public interest now centers on the next step. Gen. Dawes and Prime Minister MacDonald set the ball rolling by their speeches last night. Now it is expected that the admirals will get busy preparing various naval yardsticks which will then be handed over to the statesmen to be matched against each other and, if possible, reconciled. It is understood here that America has its yardstick ready, and Great Britain has its. Whether France and Italy are also prepared is unknown.

The method of matching is a subject for speculation. Maybe it will be first in private conversations between individual statesmen, but sooner or later it must be done in public at an international conference.

There is some disposition to believe that it will not be called until after Mr. MacDonald's visit to America. Ordinarily he would not be able to go before August owing to the session of parliament beginning in July, which will last for three or four weeks, but one of his colleagues said today that he might, if the opposition showed a spirit of decency, leave after a couple of weeks.

Cabinet Meets Tomorrow.

Probably the situation will be clearer after the cabinet meeting on Friday, which is to be devoted largely to international affairs. Mr. MacDonald leaves Loughborough tomorrow, flying to London. Mr. MacDonald hopes to outline in the King's speech a program for the labor government which will keep parliament occupied until the end of July, 1920.

Mr. MacDonald is absolutely determined to push through disarmament and looks on this and on a cure for unemployment as the two great jobs of his administration. The two objectives are linked up, for it is only by saving money now spent on inflated armaments that he can get funds for the development and improvement schemes which are needed to cure unemployment.

French Opinion Divided.

PARIS, June 19.—(AP)—The French press received the speeches of Ambassador Dawes and Premier MacDonald last night with divided opinion. All displayed the stories with great prominence, emphasizing particularly that while the British premier suggested as a point of departure an understanding between Great Britain and America, Ambassador Dawes insisted on the necessity of an accord sanctioned by the entire world.

Pertinax, in the Echo de Paris, took a hearty cynical laugh at the whole business. To get an idea of what comedy it is, he said, one has but to notice that M. Dawes opened his naval reduction plan by a "threat" with which he reminded England if she did not come to an understanding then America would start cruiser building with a $1,170,000,000 outlay.

Japanese Keenly Interested.

TOKIO, June 19.—(AP)—Japanese officialdom was keenly interested, mostly sympathetically, with the speeches made by Premier MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes last night.

The navy office spokesman was most cautious in discussing the details and expressed the opinion that Ambassador Dawes' "yardstick" might be more difficult to find than civilians believe, but nevertheless reiterated the navy's willingness to cooperate in a renewed attempt for limitation.

The afternoon newspapers showed that interest of the press has been aroused by the disarmament prospects, the news overshadowing domestic and Chinese questions. London dispatches were displayed in the first news position with large headlines, the majority picturing Ambassador Dawes with his famous pipe.

HARDINGE SEEKS
CHANGE OF VENUE
IN "BALM" SUIT

Judge Charles S. Miller yesterday continued until this morning a motion by John A. Bussan, attorney for Franklin S. Hardinge, for a change of venue in the suit of Miss Ann Livingston for $250,000 heart balm. Miss Livingston charges breach of promise and will exhibit in court the love letters she alleges Hardinge wrote to her. The 61 year old millionaire, head of an oil burner company, was married a few months ago to a girl known only as "Peggy." Miss Livingston and her lawyer, Benjamin H. Ehrlich, were in court and ready to proceed when the defense lawyer delayed the proceedings by his motion.

SENATE REBELS AT DRY KILLINGS; THREATENS QUIZ

Squelch Hoover Plea for

to condemn the lawlessness of prohibition personnel he opens himself up to attack as a dangerous person. I do not believe any man should be subject to such a glare of publicity at the methods employed in prohibition enforcement.

"We have just read of the killing of another man by dry enforcement personnel. There can be no real defense for the man who strikes down innocent citizens."

"Federal officers have a tremendous responsibility to observe the law. Certainly private assaults on innocent citizens, and the guff as well, are all open to criticism. Our government is very blameable for permitting these assaults to continue. Some means must be found to stop them."

Copeland spoke of the large amount of rum that is flowing regularly across the border and asserted some of it is being loaded into boats bound for American shores "apparently with the connivance of Canadian officials." Then he asserted this flow could not be stopped by guns or by the use of marines.

"There are not men enough," he shouted, his face red with indignation, "or guns enough to stop the liquor flow over the border."

"I am not criticizing enforcement officials for attempting to stop the liquor imports," Copeland said, "but I am critical of their methods. When agents shoot innocent citizens that is murder."

Brookhart protests angrily. Brookhart leaped to his feet and angrily questioned Copeland's right to refer to prohibition's death list as murders.

"Some are accidents and some ought to have been killed," asserted Brookhart. "I think the senator from New York could make a better case if he protested against the shooting of the fifty-five prohibition agents who have died in line of duty. Do you approve of these killings by bootleggers?"

"Of course, I do not," retorted Senator Copeland. "Does the senator from Iowa approve of the killing of innocent citizens?"

"I don't know of any," Brookhart replied. "No murders by dry agents have been proved in the courts. The murders are in the headlines of the newspapers."

Tydings Contradicts Him. At this point Senator Millard E. Tydings (Dem., Md.) interrupted to enlighten the Iowa senator on the matter of dry murders.

"A farmer named Lawrence Wenger, in my own county," he said, "was killed by prohibition enforcement agents."

"Wenger was driving his cow home one evening when agents raided a still in the woods near his farm. The agents found no one at the still, but noticing Wenger walking in his pasture, they opened fire on him. Wenger's body was taken by the agents to the county seat. Investigation disclosed his innocence. The agents admitted they had made a mistake. They were very, very sorry. But the case was tried in the federal court. The agents were defended by the attorney general's office. They had every government protection and on their showing they did not intend to kill an innocent man, but simply mistook Wenger for a bootlegger, they were freed. Wenger's family has

VIRKULA'S ALLEGED SLAYER IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY ACTION

International Falls, Minn., June 19.—(AP)—Emmet J. White, the border customs agent charged with killing Henry Virkula June 8, waived preliminary examination today on a charge of second degree murder and was bound over to the District court to await action by the grand jury.

This action, County Attorney David Hurlburt explained, will obviate White's appearance for preliminary examination, set for July 2. No plans are being made for a special grand jury to consider the case, the county attorney said. The next regular session will be held in October.

So far as he knew, Hurlburt said, nothing definite has been done to transfer White's case to federal courts. The county attorney is going ahead with plans for presentation in District court.

never been given one cent by Congress."

"Bootleggers are the most despicable class on earth," said Brookhart, by way of reply. "They must be pursued relentlessly. In enforcing prohibition an incident such as Copeland interrupted."

Tydings described what you call these killings," he said, "regardless of what name you give them; whether it's manslaughter or murder, the families of these victims are suffering just the same."

"They will say," Copeland continued, referring to the church organizations which have criticized him for his attacks on the administration's dry enforcement policies, "that I'm everything that's bad because of my remarks today. I am not talking because I want to defend King Alcohol. I hate alcohol. The trouble with father is that they want to end the liquor traffic this week. Public sentiment must be changed first. Killings will not speed the day when prohibition will really be enforced."

Defeat Own Purpose. "If the fanatics used sound common sense, they might achieve success. But I want to say that every time an innocent man is shot down by an agent armed with a saved off shotgun or pistol, the date when prohibition will be enforced has been retarded again. This dry law cannot be enforced by killings or marines or all the agents that can be gathered together. Violent methods are destroying respect for law."

Senator Glass opened his criticism of the President's administration of the dry law with the assertion that Mr. Hoover, by pressing for action on the Jones resolution, was attempting to place responsibility for the transfer of prohibition activities to the department of justice on congress.

Glass asserted that Mr. Hoover could have had the dry bureau transferred six weeks ago if he had asked congress to do this.

"The President," interrupted Senator Jones, "sent his message asking for appointment of an investigating committee this summer to expedite legislative action this fall."

Glass grows testy. "If the President wanted to expedite," he replied Glass, "the way to expedite was to expedite. What I am trying to do is rescue prohibition from the uncertain and obscure position to which the President has relegated it in his instructions to his law enforcement commission."

Senator Glass told of how he had supported the $250,000 appropriation for financing of the Hoover commission. In the belief the President would instruct them to inquire into the abuses of prohibition. The appropriation was passed in the belief it was for an investigation of prohibition, he said.

"But now prohibition has been subverted," he continued. "In an unguarded moment I allowed myself to be persuaded to insert the words 'together with enforcement of other laws.' There was no purpose on earth in making other laws the feature, this was a mere incident to prohibition enforcement."

"But now what has happened? The parenthesis has been made the main

Colic, gas, sour belchings, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give baby a teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. WEALTHY BUYERS PRAISE WARES OF N. Y. BOOTLEGGER

Defense Pins Hopes to Quality of Booze.

BY TOM PETTEY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
New York, June 19.—(Special.)—Two wealthy business men who demanded "good stuff" and got it, told about it rather shamefacedly today from a witness stand in federal court. It was at the trial of James M. McCann, alleged head of a gigantic rum ring, and the witnesses were the widely advertised Park avenue group who made their purchases over a telephone line which had been tapped.

An eleven witness, F. D. Horton, passenger agent of the Munson line, was being questioned concerning Mr. McCann's trips to Cuba and the Bahamas, when M. M. Edelstein, attorney for McCann and his associates, Edward Maloney, Frank Collins, and John H. Spellman, who are on trial jointly with their leader, interrupted the questioning.

"Admit Deal with Ship Lines," "We concede," he said, "that Mr. McCann had arrangements with three steamship lines whereby he could obtain his supplies."

When this startling admission from the defendant, the government rested. The defense will open tomorrow morning.

The big business men who under such praised McCann's fine liquor were Irving H. Meahan, secretary of a New York trust company; James A. Walsh, president of the Boston Realty company; James H. Ward, said to be an executive of the Bethlehem Steel company; Eugene F. Moran, president of the Moran Transportation company; John Hughes, a steel man

ROBBED IN OFFICE

"I wish you'd look at my tonsils, doc," a well dressed young man addressed Dr. F. Siegfried Jackson, in his office at 2408 Orchard street last night. The physician did so. "Now look at this," ordered the young man, producing a .45 caliber revolver. He bound and gagged Dr. Jackson, took $210 from his pockets and departed. The doctor told the police about it.

whose address is the same as that of the United States Steel corporation; Sidney W. Farnsworth and Charles J. Raleigh, brokers; Richard B. Hubbe, banker; Walter C. Booth, insurance man; and Oscar Cooper, Park avenue broker.

McCann and his aids, who are charged with "conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws," are making no attempt to deny that liquor was sold. Mr. Edelstein, their senior counsel, is going out of his way on every occasion to boast about the quality of the liquor, wines and cordials sold by his client.

The defense, it was said, will deny only one thing—that there was a conspiracy. The case will be fought on the rather daring theory that a New York jury knows the difference between a bootlegger and a business man who supplied good liquor to the best people in a thoroughly business-like manner.

The business men testified because they had to. None of them appeared to enjoy his time on the stand. McCann, who is secretary to Sheriff Charles W. Cullen, watched his customers squirm, but there was no apparent malice.

Liquor Was Splendid.

The testimony of the business men ran along the same groove. That given by Mr. Walsh, a stout, red faced perspiring gentleman, is representative. He ordered liquor by telephone, he said under questioning by Robert Watts, assistant U. S. attorney, and paid for it by check. The liquor was good stuff—splendid liquor—and cost about $35 a case for Scotch and $110 a case for rye. Mr. McCann was an old friend. He had known him several years and knew he always would get reliable stuff from him.

"You consumed some of the liquor and it was all right?" asked Edelstein on cross examination.

"I did and it was more than all right," responded the witness.

CANADA DOUBLES GUARD TO KEEP U. S. GUNMEN OUT

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
TORONTO, Ont., June 19.—Mobilization of dry agents on the United States side of the border will be followed by doubling of provincial police reserves on the Canadian side, Attorney General W. H. Price said today. Fearing that the United States offensive would drive United States rum runners and gunmen into Canada, Mr. Price announced steps today "to keep lawlessness out of our province."

BORDER TOWNS READY TO HELP IN BOOZE DRIVE

Mayors Answer Appeal of President.

Detroit, Minn., June 19.—(Special.)—President Hoover's appeal to citizens and officials of towns and cities bordering on Canada that they help enforce the prohibition law brought replies from officials of border cities today.

"Complete and wholehearted cooperation will be given the federal authorities by the Detroit police department in the enforcement of the United States customs and prohibition laws," said Mayor John C. Lodge of Detroit. "I hope that the communities along the border will do their best to help the treasury in the systematic war that is being carried on by international criminals against the laws of the United States."

"As far as this town is concerned," said Mayor Ira J. Kreger of Wyandotte, "it always has and will continue to cooperate with federal authorities. As for prohibition enforcement on the river, I am in favor of any sane program, but I am not in sympathy with the brand of enforcement that is being used on the river now."

Fail to Show Courtesy.
"People are awakened at all hours of the night by shots fired by officers, who are not exercising even common courtesy to the people who are not law violators and have a right to be on the river."

polished decks of the pleasure craft and turned things topsy turvy in a search for liquor, when common sense should have told them that there would be no liquor aboard.

"I don't believe that President Hoover would stand for the methods being employed here. Federal officers should be able to watch the bootleggers and to recognize rum runner boats and not be subjecting innocent citizens, going about their business and exercising their rights on the river, to such discourteasies. Innocent people should be able to use their river without being in constant fear for their safety."

River Rouge Will Help.

"The President's request will be received favorably by all good citizens," said Mayor Arnold C. Frutig of River Rouge. "River Rouge policemen have cooperated with federal officers frequently in the past, and the two groups have worked together successfully. We can do it again, if we are asked for aid."

Heretofore, the federal prohibition agents have worked on their own in Trenton," said Mayor William R. Teller of Trenton, "and our police have not been asked for assistance. The President's request will be received favorably by all good citizens."

May McAvoy Asks Permit

Los Angeles, Cal., June 19.—(AP)—May McAvoy, film actress, applied today for a permit to wed Maurice G. Cleary, Los Angeles investment broker. Miss McAvoy said the wedding was planned for next Wednesday at a Beverly Hills church. She gave her age as 25. Cleary said he was 31.

GOV. ROOSEVELT FLAYS KILLERS FOR DRY LAWS

Cambridge, Mass., June 19.—(Special.)—The slaying of American citizens by prohibition agents today was denounced by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York in an interview at Harvard university, where he will be chief marshal at the commencement exercises tomorrow.

The distinguished graduate of the class of 1904 referred to the recent celebration of the anniversary of the Magna Charta and expressed the hope that President Hoover's recent statements will put a stop to the killings. Asked for his opinion, he said:

"I feel very strongly opposed to the killing of American citizens in the effort to enforce any law. I hope that President Hoover's recent statements will end killings for once and for all." He called attention to the principles of Magna Charta, the guarantee of a fair trial and the avoidance of violence on the part of administrative officers.

FINDS HISTORIC PRECEDENTS FOR 160 MILLION WILL

Trusts of Franklin and Briton Failures.

Historic parallels of the fantastic will of Will H. Latta, Indianapolis attorney, which would give $160,000,000 in philanthropic bequests by allowing $50,000 to remain in trust with compound interest, until 2129, were reviewed yesterday by Probate Judge Henry Horner. No less important figure than the venerable Benjamin Franklin had the same plan which he undoubtedly adopted from Peter Tellusson, an English gentleman with ambition.

Thellusson, the son of a minister at the French court from the state of Geneva, went to England with 10,000 pounds to make his fortune. He prospered by becoming a landlord until at his death in 1797 his estate was approximately $3,000,000. Thellusson had visions of establishing the most powerful financial family in the world and devised his will to that end.

First Estate in Trust.
His will put the estate in trust for three generations. At the end of that period, estimated at 1853, it was to be divided equally between the three mythical sons of a direct mythical descendant. The document created a sensation. Experts of the period estimated the estate would reach more than $115,000,000 and pointed out that if the will were allowed almost anyone in England would be working for the trust estate, since the figure would command every foot of land on the island.

Thellusson's will was contested by his widow and three children. Court after court held the document valid. Public pressure was brought to bear on parliament after years of litigation until in 1850 an act was passed making perpetuities illegal beyond the life of the youngest living beneficiary. The same law was adopted in this country with the exception, also made in England, of philanthropic bequests.

Boston Franklin's Heir.
Franklin, who undoubtedly knew of the Thellusson will, left the equivalent of $5,000 to the city of Boston in trust for 100 years. He estimated at the expiration of the period it would have grown to $650,000. He provided that $500,000 of the amount go to the city of Boston and the remainder be used to aid "young married artificers." These were to be permitted to make loans on the sum. The principal was to be held in trust for a second period of 100 years. At the expiration of the second period, $15,000,000 was to be spent for the state by the governor and $5,000,000 for the aid of apprentices.

The will is perhaps the only example of the failure of Franklin's vision. The apprentice system has become antiquated and his sum did not grow as he anticipated. At present Boston is attempting to break the will to enable the use of thousands of dollars for relief of the poor.

Judge Horner in commenting on the Latta will said that it is legally sound, but expressed doubt of its being carried out.

Hint at Suicide.

Noblesville, Ind., June 19.—(Special.)—Coroner Frank J. Evans tonight refused to return a verdict of accidental death in the inquest over Will H. Latta, Indianapolis attorney who was fatally injured June 12 in a railroad crossing accident near here.

Engineer Arthur M. Holmes testified he first saw Latta's automobile as he rounded a curve half mile away. He pulled open his whistle, rang the bell, and applied emergency brakes, he said. Latta sat in the car facing the locomotive and remained thus until struck, Holmes declared. It was also testified that neither the headlights nor tail-lights on Latta's car were lighted.

The attorney was to have been married to Miss Margaret Sander of Fort Wayne, Ind.

BORDER BOOZE RUNNERS FIRE ON U. S. PATROL

Shots Disable Pursuer in Detroit River.

Detroit, Mich., June 19.—(Special.)—Border patrol speed boat 4101 today was fired on and damaged by rum runners in a running fight which developed in American waters of the Detroit river.

The runners took the aggressive in their effort to bring Canadian liquor across the border. After reaching the haven of Canadian waters, where they were automatically protected by the terms of international treaty, they opened fire a second time, but did not hit the patrol boat again. Two customs inspectors in the speed boat brought their craft to the customs base at the foot of Dubois street, where it will be repaired. The bow was smashed by bullets, the windshield broken and some of the machinery wrecked.

Boat Is Well Known.
The boat from which the shots were fired is well known to the customs border patrol. Last week its crew opened fire on a customs patrol, but were turned back to Canada before any damage was inflicted. They are members of an east side gang noted for rum running and hijacking.

COUNTY POLICE HUNT M'ERLANE TO AVENGE HONOR

Chief Closes Roadhouses After Gunplay.

Chief William Collins of the highway police yesterday opened war on Frank McErlane, Chicago's sportive beer baron, to avenge the honor of his department, sullied last Saturday night when highway police failed to interrupt McErlane's two gun revelry with suburban police chiefs.

Chief Collins closed two roadhouses which figured in the evening's entertainment and gave a stinging sermon on police duties to his men with the order that the participants be brought before him.

Chief Collins opened fire when Policemen W. W. Mandelco, J. Conlon, Fred Mulhausen, and Anthony Jirlich were halted before him to report on their part in the evening.

Report All Is Quiet.

The last two had reported all was quiet after investigating a complaint that McErlane and two pals were shooting at bushes and terrifying motorists along Ridgeland avenue. The first pair had refused to seek out McErlane after Chief Charles Polka of Ridge said he had been fired upon by the party. They waited until Polka secured a warrant before entering the home of John Lahti, 12333 South Michigan avenue, to regain his gun and air, taken in the encounter.

The party began Saturday night after Polka's motorcycle had been wrecked in a collision with the gangster's car. He was slugged and disarmed. Polka called on his neighbor, Daniel Crandall, chief of Worth, who came to his rescue and trapped the boisterous party in William Garvey's roadhouse at 111th street and Ridgeland avenue. They were allowed to proceed unmolested and armed when highway police intervened.

Help Get Gun Back.

The revelers went to Chris Quinn's roadhouse on 95th street, where they forced patrons to dance to their pistols. Later highway police went with Polka to the home of Lahti, identified as one of the party, and arranged for a return of the gun and star.

Both resorts were closed by Chief Collins, who declares he will have McErlane in custody for the frolic even though his promises necessitate personal patrol of the highways.

ROBBERS' BULLET KILLS WATCHMAN.

Peoria, Ill., June 19.—(AP)—Bullet wounds received a week ago when he failed robbers, trying to loot the Merchants warehouse cost Joseph Bourlet, 60, his life today. Bourlet, the night watchman, refused to raise his hands at the robbers' command, opened fire on them and fell in the exchange of bullets. The two robbers escaped.

These few Vital Inches

mean RISK or SAFETY

Never forget for a minute that those four or five inches of space between your wheel rim and the road are the four or five inches on which your constant safety depends.

Anything can happen if a tire goes. Trouble—of course. Delay and inconvenience—always. But more than that—actual Risk. Suppose a tire should go in a crisis!

Think now—before taking a chance. You may be all right for a week, a month, six months—but do you know? You can know you are safe if you ride on 4 Hood Tires. Because Hood Tires are built with an extra, built-in margin of safety.

This extra "margin of safety" comes to you with every tire bearing the White Arrow trade mark. This mark is your assurance of mileage, of tire economy and of freedom from the sweating, dirty work of tire-changing on the road. It means strength of construction, accuracy in design and perfection of workmanship.

CARBARY SEES END OF DRIVE TO ENFORCE LAW

Blames Board's Ban on Snoopers' Expenses.

Snooping in Kane county ceased to be profitable after a committee of the board of supervisors on Tuesday cut all expenses from the bills presented by employees of State's Attorney George D. Carbary. An announcement by Prosecutor Carbary followed yesterday, to the effect that his campaign of law enforcement is ended.

"The action of the board can mean but one of two things," his statement read. "It means there is either a concerted and successful effort by bootleggers and those in sympathy with them to end a vigorous enforcement of the law against bootlegging, gambling and prostitution in Kane county, or else it means that the members of this board have lost confidence in their state's attorney."

Can't Get Evidence.
"The refusal of the board to pay the bills presented by my investigators will mean the end of the law enforcement campaign. If the board continues to refuse to pay the bills of investigators it will be impossible for me to hire men to get evidence. And enforcement can be made only through evidence secured in that way."

Carbary's troubles with the board of supervisors began after the killing of Mrs. Lillian De King in her home in Aurora by Deputy Sheriff Roy

Smith, one of Carbary's raiders. An investigation disclosed that Roy Fairchild, snooper who made a false affidavit regarding a liquor purchase in the De King home, was paid on a commission basis. An examination of the expense accounts of other Carbary employees resulted in the charge they were paid.

$5,400 Bills Rejected.
The supervisors rejected the latest bills, aggregating $5,400, and asked the judiciary committee to review them and to question each individual regarding every item of expense listed. The board also rejected an expense item submitted by Carbary for a 25 ride ticket between Elgin and Chicago, which he said he purchased so he could come to Chicago to confer with federal authorities regarding prohibition enforcement. "I collected $41,000 in fines and only spent $15,000 getting evidence," Carbary explained last night.

COUNTY OFFICERS ASK PSYCHIATRIC CLINIC IN JAIL

At a meeting held in the chambers of Chief Justice John J. Sullivan of the Criminal court yesterday, county officials agreed that the county board should be asked to defray the expense of establishing a psychiatric clinic in the county jail. The idea originated with Attorney Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission.

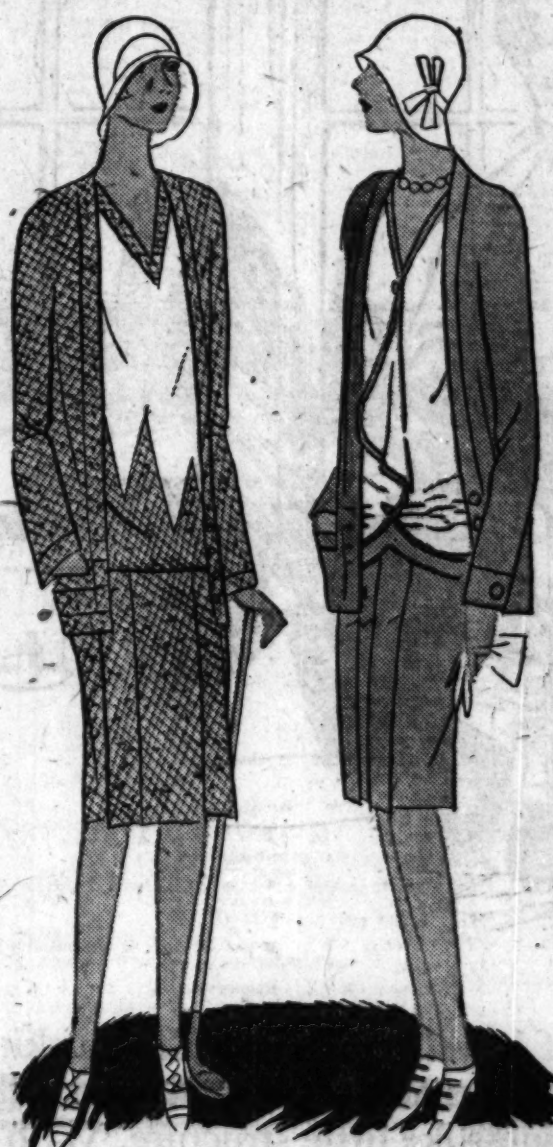

The meeting was attended by all the Criminal court judges, several leading psychiatrists, Sheriff John E. Traeger, Warden David Monaghan of the county jail and representatives of the state's attorney's office. The purpose of the clinic is to examine each prisoner brought into the jail for feeble mindedness or insanity. Prisoners asking probation are to be rigidly examined before being turned back on society, under the plan, and special attention is to be given to murderers and habitual criminals. The plan is to establish a resident alienist at the jail.

ISSUE EXECUTION FOR $2,245,604 IN EXPERTS' CASE

An execution authorizing the city to collect $2,245,604 from Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, Edward G. Waller Jr., Arnold Brautigam, Frank J. Krook and Percival C. Coffin was issued yesterday by Circuit Judge Hugo M. Friend. The execution was issued in the judgment obtained by Tins Tinsbury in its suit to recover fees paid illegally by the first Thompson administration to real estate experts.

The appeal of Mayor William H. Thompson and County Treasurer George F. Harding, also defendants in the action, is pending in the state Supreme court. Faherty and the others did not appeal. The case was brought after Tins Tinsbury made an investigation, uncovering diversion of the huge sums paid experts in connection with the transformation of South Water street into Wacker drive.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Do you know that just beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or aged complexion is one fair to look upon? Nature causes the normal skin to peel off in tiny, unseen, flour-like particles, a little each day, renewing the complexion of youth naturally, but there comes a time when this skin shedding slows up. Worry, overwork, sickness, inactivity are reasons that cause the face to be blotchy, discolored, pimply and old looking. The thing to do, if you wish to look your prettiest at all times, is to assist nature in the process of absorption by using pure Mercolized Wax. Get an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter and use as directed. It gently but surely peels away the outer scarf skin, removing freckles, pimples, blackheads or a muddy complexion. The underneath skin, now in evidence, is clear, pink, fresh and velvety, and the entire face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines we recommend a line lotion of unusual merit. One ounce produces smooth and one-half pint which lasts.

A.D.S. goes 7,000 miles to bring you one product

JUST beyond the sprinkling of hovels that mark the outskirts of the town of Baku, overlooking the vast derrick-scarred plains of the Russian oil country, there stands a very businesslike little structure. With its brick walls and metal casements, it stands like an outpost—which it is—of an advanced civilization—of a scientific age.

It is the laboratory of the Chemists stationed at Baku.

There at the source of supply of the finest mineral oil in the world, chemists daily examine the Russian oil in its crude state—analyze, test and, according to quality, reject or accept it for shipment to the A. D. S. laboratories in America.

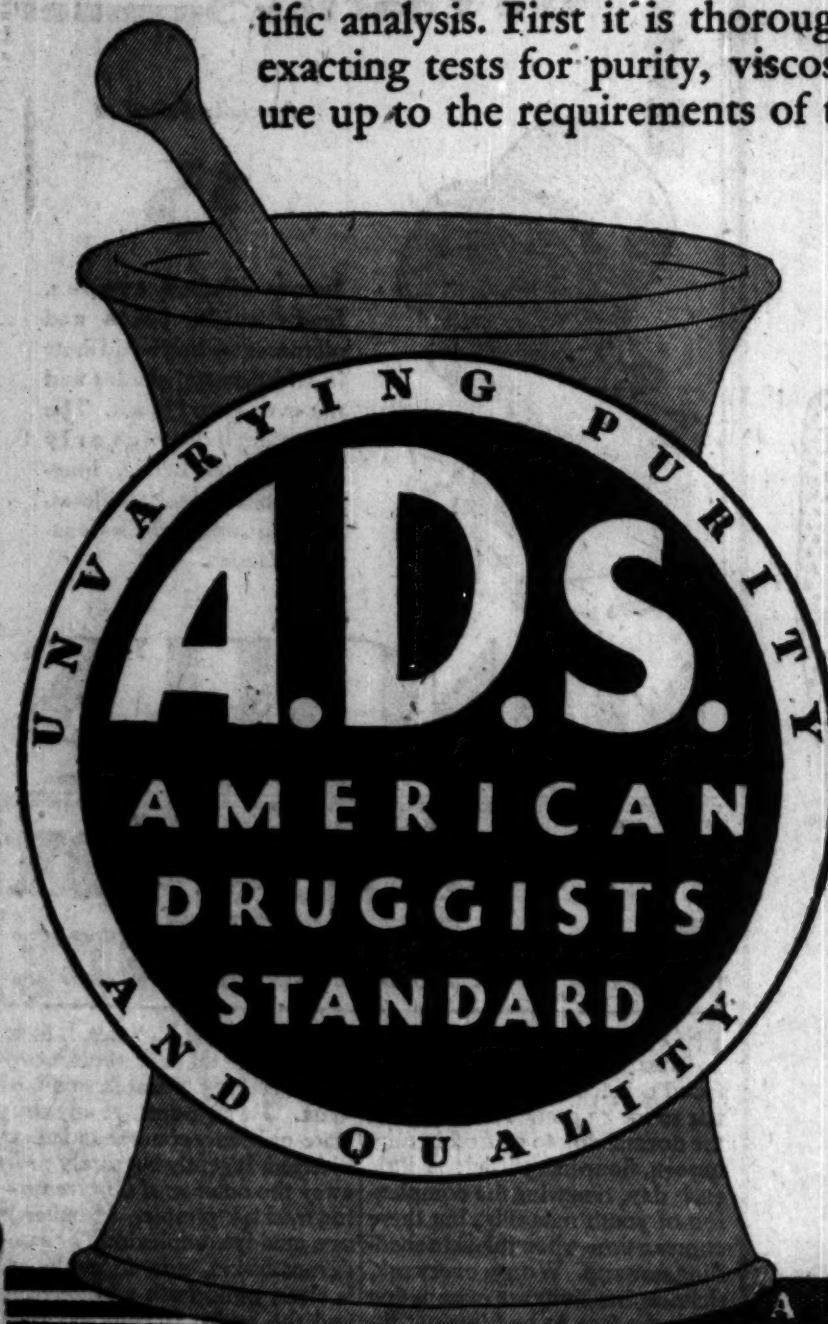

Like all ingredients used in A. D. S. products, it is given searching scientific analysis. First it is thoroughly refined. Then it is subjected to the most exacting tests for purity, viscosity and specific gravity, before it can measure up to the requirements of the A. D. S. Standard.

Many manufacturers whom the War deprived of their supply of imported oil, even though it is now available, are content to go on with the domestic product of lower viscosity. But the A. D. S. Standard requires the highest quality—unvarying purity—even when, as in this case, we have to go 7000 miles for our source of supply.

A few selected products made to the

MICHIGAN LIKELY TO GAIN 5 SEATS BY NEXT CENSUS

Detroit Demands Fairer Representation.

Detroit, Mich., June 19.—[Special.]—Five additional seats in the lower house of congress are Michigan's expectation in the reapportionment just provided for after a 10 year fight. Political optimists predict the new census may even swell this state's quota by another additional seat. They point out that current discussions, based on the 1920 census, which have rated Michigan as entitled to an increase from 13 to 17 house seats, have failed to take into consideration phenomenal population gains in the last decade. Current estimates place the state's population at well over 4,500,000, an increase of from 250,000 to 300,000 since the last enumeration.

Metropolitan Detroit, which overflows the bounds of Wayne county, believes it is entitled to all five additional seats, making seven for Wayne county, instead of the two whole districts and parts of two other districts now encompassed by the county boundaries. Detroit bases this expectation on its growth from 465,000 population in 1910, to 1,400,000 within the city limits now and belief that the metropolitan district total will be 1,750,000.

Detroit Has Big Claim.
The one district of Michigan which most requires relief is the sixth, comprising as it does enough Detroit and Wayne county population for two complete districts. There are also the populous automobile manufacturing centers of Flint, Lansing and Pontiac. The sixth district is the most populous and one of the wealthiest congressional districts in America. It includes the Buick, Chevrolet, Ford, Dodge, Hupp, Olds, Oakland, Durant, Pontiac, Graham-Paige, Reo, and other automobile plants, the Grosse Pointe district, "gold coast" of wealthy Detroit, and costly estates in the Bloomfield Hills and others districts. The district has grown in population from 325,000 in 1910 to well over 1,000,000 now, and pays more income taxes than any other single district in America. It is claimed. The sixth district, now represented by Grant M. Hudson, an ardent "dry," cast in excess of 235,000 votes in the election last November. Its population comes close to equaling the combined populations of the states of Nevada, Delaware, Wyoming, Vermont, and New Mexico. Those states have six votes in the lower house.

Another Fight Ahead.
In their election over victory in the fight for equitable representation in congress, Michigan's rapidly growing urban centers are not unmindful that another battle looms in the legislature before they actually realize the fruits of victory. It took five years after the last census to secure a legislative reapportionment, which even now is a compromise. It gives Wayne county 21 seats in the house of 100, and 7 of the 32 senators.

Geographical jealousies, the reluctance of the slowly dwindling population of rural Michigan to make concessions to industrial districts which have become dominant, and the distrust of the intensely "dry" rural districts of the quite "moist" cities, are obstacles hard to overcome. Added to these in the case of the congressional reapportionment, will be the political gerrymandering and the striving for geographical advantages by congressmen whose districts are affected.

Delay Is Likely.
Michigan has the initiative and referendum to meet these problems with. But the urban centers have preferred the more conservative strategy of conciliation so as to minimize traditional friction between agricultural and industrial interests.

The late start of the census taking probably will defer the Michigan battle until the session of 1932. It is doubtful if the census is completed in time for legislative action in 1931. In the meantime, any extra seats gained by Michigan will be filled by elections at large, unless the governor can be persuaded that the issue is sufficiently pressing to call for an extra session.

Bradish, instructor in philosophy, are faculty members who will take the cruise.

PRISONER HELD FOR OBSERVATION.
Judge Francis Borrelli in the South State street court yesterday ordered C. H. Christman, alias Robert Henderson, who was arrested Saturday on a bad check charge and was suspected of being William Talman, California fugitive, to be placed under observation in the Psychopathic hospital.

HAUKE REFUSED NEW TRIAL; SET EXECUTION DATE

William Hauke, who more than a year ago was sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Mrs. Isabella Shockley, was refused a new trial yesterday by the Supreme court and a new date set for his execution. He is to be hanged on Oct. 11. Hauke will be hanged instead of electrocuted because the murder was committed before the new execution law went into effect.

"I don't want to say anything now," said Hauke when given the news in his cell in the county jail. "I'll let my lawyers talk. They obtained reprieves for me before and I don't want to lose heart now." Hauke has had several narrow escapes from the noose. He received several reprieves and just before the last date set for his execution officials of the American Legion, acting as individuals, they said, interested themselves in the case and received permission to make a new appeal to the Supreme court.

SHOUSE FINDS FINE PORTENTS FOR DEMOCRACY

New Pilot Says Party Is Staging Comeback.

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Joseph Shouse, the new pilot of the Democratic party, finds that the solid south is drifting back into the Democratic fold and that the whole north-west is in revolt against the Republican tariff policy. These two distinctive movements are the outstanding political tendencies of the day, he believes.

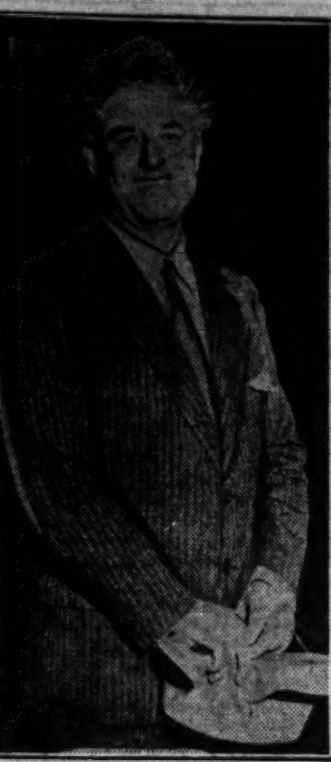

Mr. Shouse sees much to cheer the Democracy and its leaders. The Hoover administration is not going over with the country, in his opinion, and the Democracy has made a great discovery which means success in the future. This is the idea that the national organization must function every day of the year and not merely a few months every four years during a presidential election.

Party's New Go-Getter. John J. Raskob may be chairman of the national committee, but Shouse is the new go-getter who is trying to build up the party state by state during the bad years. In keeping with that policy he left his new central headquarters just established in Washington, where he is watching congress and trying to develop a constant minority program, to spend a busy day in New York in conference with Mr. Raskob, Alfred E. Smith, and other Democratic chiefs.

Mr. Shouse insisted that his call on the former governor was personal and not political. He would not think of visiting New York and not calling on Mr. Smith, the new executive manager said. Concerning the report that Democratic chiefs are trying to persuade Mr. Smith to announce he will not again be a candidate for the presidential nomination and thereby ease the pain of the southern statesmen, Mr. Shouse was mum. He had no word to say on candidacies for 1932.

Guffy Is Optimistic. Joseph Guffy, the leader in Pennsylvania, called on Mr. Shouse at the Vanderbilt hotel to say that the party organization in the Keystone state is in better condition than at any time in its history. Mr. Guffy says he actually sees a chance of electing a governor.

"I am convinced that the south is all right," Mr. Shouse said. "The solid south is still Democratic, in spite of its excursion in the last election, and I am perfectly certain will be found in the Democratic column in 1932. I am not at all alarmed about the south."

The new manager would not discuss in detail the Virginia situation, where the anti-Smith faction, led by Bishop Cannon and the Klan day elements, had a convention yesterday and named an independent for governor in the hope of fusing with the Republicans and beating Governor Byrd and the regular Democrats.

The Democratic leaders regard the Minnesota vote yesterday in a special congressional election as clear, direct evidence of the attitude of the north-west toward the Republican tariff policy.

DR. SNOOK DENIES HE KILLED CO-ED, BUT BLOOD FOUND

Chemist Analyzes Spots on Professor's Car.

BULLETIN.

Columbus, O., June 19.—[U. P.]—Dr. James H. Snook, under questioning tonight in connection with the slaying of Theora Hix, was unable to furnish an explanation for blood stains on the doorjamb of his automobile, County Prosecutor John J. Chester announced.

Columbus, O., June 19.—[U. P.]—Stains on the blue coupe of Dr. James H. Snook, professor of veterinary surgery at Ohio State university, were caused by blood, an analytical chemist reported tonight as Snook entered police headquarters to be cross examined a fourth time regarding the death of Miss Leora Hix, murdered university co-ed.

Dismissed From Professorship. Snook, firmly maintaining his innocence, went into the inquisition at headquarters tonight under an unhappy augury. He had been dismissed from his university professorship because of his admitted liaison with the murdered co-ed, for whom he maintained a secret love nest. His wife had admitted, under the fire of detectives' questions, that he was not at home most of last Thursday evening, when Miss Hix was murdered. The stains on the car, which he attributed to various causes, were analyzed as those of blood.

Confronted by Parent. Then, as he entered the room to be questioned, he started as he found an aged, white haired man sitting alone in a chair. They stared at each other. Neither spoke. Then a detective approached and led the white haired man out of the room. He was Melvin T. Hix of Bradenton, Fla., the murdered girl's father.

Between now and Friday, C. F. Long, retained as chemist in the case, will determine whether the blood stains on the coupe are those of human blood, and compare them with spots found on a suit Snook sent to be cleaned the day Miss Hix's body was found.

Marion T. Meyers, who allegedly was Snook's rival for the attentions of Miss Hix, and who was arrested with Snook, was released today.

WARNS DE PRIEST HE PERILS RACE AMITY IN SOUTH

Virginia Republican Spurns Invitation.

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—Warning Oscar De Priest of Chicago, Republican, the only Negro member of the house of representatives, that he should not obtrude himself, either socially or officially, in the life of the national capital lest "he disturb relations which have long been amicably settled in the south," Representative J. C. Shaffer, of Virginia, Republican, refused an invitation from Mr. De Priest to attend a musical and reception at the Washington auditorium.

Mr. Shaffer's letter was prompted, it was said, by the recent presence of Mrs. De Priest at a White House tea.

Praises Conduct on Floor. "Your invitation to attend a musical and reception to be given at the Washington Auditorium June 21, has been received," the letter said. "I decline the invitation. Permit me to say that I am a Republican member of congress and that I have observed your course in the house, and it has been retiring and exemplary. The continuance of this course would have won you the admiration and respect of your colleagues and of the country. Every courtesy has been accorded to you to which you are entitled by virtue of your high office."

"You are now embarking on a perilous course, which will, if you continue, disturb relations which have long been amicably settled in the south. The people of the country are in sympathy with the development and advancement of your race, and I strongly favor this course."

"Any movement or attempt by you in the direction of social equality is not a true interpretation of the attitude of both people. It will not be tolerated by the white people of the country, nor is it desired by the Negro race."

"The white people have their position, and are respected in it. The colored race has its place, and is respected in it. No one desires to disturb these relations."

"I make this statement in the interest of and because of my friendship for the colored people of the south-land."

Floridan Condemns Hoovers. Earlier in the day Representative R. A. Green of Florida, Democrat, issued a statement denouncing "the social race equality of the White House." Mr. Green complained that the social consciousness of Caucasian America "was outraged" and threatened to withhold his acceptance of future White House invitations as long as the White House is occupied by the Hoovers.

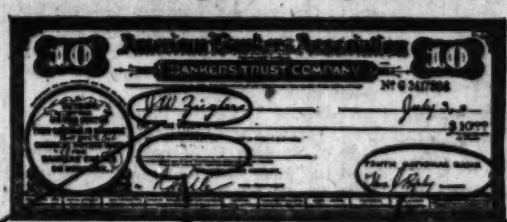

Further, he said, he did not intend "to dine in the congressional restaurant as long as its privileges were accorded to the Negro congressman and his Negro constituents."

JOE SALTIS MAY TURN LAWYER TO EARN OWN FEES

Bootlegger Joe Saltis will be put to trial Monday in the federal court on another prohibition charge—transporting liquor—Judge Charles E. Woodward ruled yesterday in overruling a demurrer to the indictment which had been argued by Attorney James M. Burke. Saltis listened to the argument and at its conclusion intimated modestly that in the future he may be pleading his own cases as a bona fide attorney. Joe is now studying law at his summer cottage in Hayward, Wis., he said.

When a man is pestered with numerous court cases as is Mr. Saltis, legal fees mount up extraordinarily, Joe indicated, and he feels that there is no reason why he shouldn't avoid paying out a lot of good money if he can do the trick himself.

ANGLO-AMERICAN NAVAL ACCORD.

The friendly exchanges which have taken place between the new British prime minister and the new American ambassador undoubtedly express the spirit which animates the main body of the American and the British people and their common desire for peace and accord. There are many points of friction between us and a rivalry which it serves no good purpose to deny. Comfortable generalization as to the impossibility of armed conflict between us or as to identity or community of interest is deceptive. War is, indeed, improbable, and there are many important interests we share. But the emphasis placed both in England and America upon the meeting of Mr. MacDonald and Gen. Dawes and the obvious earnestness and sincerity of their utterances are evidence of the common realization that conflict is by no means, as is emotionally said, unthinkable, and that durable accord is something to be vigorously and practically striven for.

We are not suggesting that Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Hoover, through Ambassador Dawes, propose to accomplish an understanding between the United States and Great Britain which would cover all contacts between us, but it is undeniable that if they can make adjustments and reach a common understanding as to naval strength and maritime interests they will have gone as far toward insuring a durable peace and a profitable cooperation as can be hoped through statesmanship.

Gen. Dawes did well, therefore, to confine his significant statement to the problem of naval accord, and it is to be hoped the American public will give its attention and its serious thought to this difficult problem. The United States and its government is at a disadvantage as compared with Great Britain in dealing with the problem because there is no instructed general opinion in our country. We have forgotten the sea and our great and rapidly growing interest in maritime things is but dimly realized. Our statesmen are not given the support of a solid national opinion founded upon habitual thought of our international relations and our widespread interests in their protection. There is emotional aspiration toward peace and friendship and enthusiastic theorizing unchecked by responsibility or respect for experience. But well disposed as we may be confident Mr. MacDonald and his government and indeed in the main the British people are toward peace and accord, we may also be confident that there is under this or any other British government a sound footing of understanding of their own vital needs from which they cannot be swept.

This is entirely worthy of our respect. It is also worthy of our imitation. All Americans of good will hope that our government will be able to work out with the British an understanding upon naval building and maintenance which will substantially limit, and, therefore, the possibility of conflict between the two great maritime powers, or, indeed, as Mr. MacDonald wisely adds, with any other power. But no understanding will endure unless it embodies a just appreciation of the vital concerns of both nations. We would say frankly that this is a consideration which the British government has reason not to slight, for a diplomatic victory such as that achieved at the Washington conference would be a Pyrrhic victory. We do not think either Mr. Hoover or Ambassador Dawes is in danger of yielding such a delusive success, and indeed we are not suggesting that Mr. MacDonald would seek it. But certainly our experience, both in our well intentioned effort at Washington and in our subsequent attempts at Geneva, has been encouraging and we trust will serve as imperative warning on the threshold of the present negotiations.

We think this consideration bears rather obviously upon Gen. Dawes' remarks upon the role to be played by naval technicians in naval agreements. At the Washington conference our naval technicians were overruled and we cannot find in the results of those negotiations any encouragement for an extreme reliance upon the ability of civilian judgment to protect us from ill advised concessions and fruitless sacrifices. The adjustment of naval strength is primarily a technical affair and while it must be governed by certain basic factors of policy it cannot be safely made without an intelligent respect for expert knowledge and judgment or without close cooperation between the political and technical representatives.

Ambassador Dawes' address calls for careful consideration as the authentic statement of our

THE LAW OF THE GUN.

Enforcement agents are not to use rifles. They might hit a Canadian. Their saved off shotguns or riot guns have been withdrawn from issue as a concession to humanity. If an agent cannot hit a tourist or a citizen with a pistol that is a break for the person fired at. Seymour Lowman of the treasury department, administering the humanities of enforcement, will go no further, and apparently he has the support of his superiors in government.

Mr. Lowman says the agents will be permitted to fire at the automobiles of persons who do not heed their orders to stop. That means that they are permitted to murder the occupants. Agents firing at fires have shown their competence by killing the drivers. The assistant secretary of the treasury speaks of self-defense as a right of the federal agents. The self-defense which has outraged the country is that of killing citizens going away from their killers.

The doctrine that federal officers may shoot at any one they want to is without parallel in the history of law enforcement in this country. It is the official dictum that these irresponsible agents, many of them men of inferior or bad character, have the authority to fire on suspicion. If they kill they will be protected in the federal courts, defended before a federal judge and jury by a representative of the federal department of justice.

An appeal from that option will be carried to a higher court, to the final judgment of the American people who create their government and who can change it.

THROUGH STREETS AND NO PARKING.

The Cook county highway department has prepared a five year program of road building. The money will come, in large part, from the county's share of gasoline taxes. It is to be used in large part in the paving of through streets in Chicago, connecting with the main state roads at the city limits.

This program is sound in principle, provided the streets selected for paving are, in reality, through streets. The danger is that the money will be spent, as much road money has been spent in the past, for the benefit of influential individuals. Gasoline tax money spent for the purpose of opening up a road to some one's subdivision or in relieving individuals of their special assessments for paving will be largely wasted.

The streets to be paved should be selected because they are, in reality, through streets. They should be so designated at once. They should be designed and operated for the purpose of carrying as much traffic as possible with as few interruptions as possible. Parking on them should, as a matter of course, be forbidden, for the parked automobile constitutes the most serious obstruction to traffic which the city has to deal with.

A PLEASANT OUTING FOR THE COMMERCIAL CLUB.

A $40,000,000 union passenger station is planned for Cincinnati. The president of the Cincinnati Union Terminal company made the announcement to members of the Cincinnati Commercial club during their annual outing on the Ohio river. No one, we think, will begrudge Cincinnati these new terminal facilities, for the railroad traffic conditions there are almost as notorious as those of the south side group of railroads in Chicago.

So long as the railroads are disposed to make dramatic presentation of plans before commercial clubs on picnics we are sure that the Commercial club of Chicago would be glad to arrange an outing on the main channel to provide the proper setting for an announcement of plans as to the south side terminal or terminals. If the railroads are spending $40,000,000 on a bye station the Commercial club of Chicago should expect something several figures larger in addition to electrification for the improvement of a terminal without which the railroads would be in the shuttle business.

Editorial of the Day

OFFICIAL MURDERS.

[The Charleston (W. Va.) Gazette.]

One cannot but wonder at the insanity which has taken the government to the defense of its officers who shoot down innocent people in cold blood. The latest killing, at International Falls, Minn., immediately called forth a whitewash from the department of justice and the announcement that the treasury department would join the department of justice in defending this wanton slayer. Why should a brutal killer be tried in federal court by the district attorney as his counsel? Why should these murders be exempt from the ordinary workings of the law? We repeat that question, Why? Is it because in our regular courts, where no special favors would be given them, the authorities feel that an outraged citizenry would mete out summary justice on these brutes who kill first and investigate afterwards?

The killing of Henry Virkula in Minnesota was especially wanton. He was a business man of Big Falls and was driving home with his wife and two children. Border Patrolman White testified that he ordered Virkula to stop. The wife of the slain man says positively she heard no such order. All she knows is that there was a sudden volley of shots and her husband was dead. Then White came up, visibly frightened and nervous, and stammered out an incoherent, cowardly apology. There is not one extenuating circumstance for this murder in the whole case. Yet, like the killer of Jacob Hanson of Niagara Falls, he will probably be tried for second degree murder in a friendly court and with a district attorney for his counsel. And probably, like Hanson's slayer, he will get off.

People are talking and grumbling about these murders. The people who voted for the abolition of the open saloon and the end of the rum influence in politics had in mind something very unlike what is now going on. When our government begins to conspire with murderers we are going downhill pretty fast.

WHY IS A NAME?

Tommy was always eager for knowledge, and one day, while walking in the park with his father, he asked the name of a tree.
"That's an elm tree," his father told him.
"Why do they call it an elm?"
"O, why do they call you Tommy?" asked his father, impatiently.
Tommy thought for a while. Then he said:
"I don't know—why do they call me 'Tommy'?"
father—"London Calling."

BARE LEGS AND HOT WEATHER.

As the summer approaches the question of bare legs and uncovered areas becomes acute. We are asked that Helen White will be asked to wear stockings when she plays on certain courts. Whether this edict will stop young American girls from following the barelegged style remains to be seen.

The store windows display armless shirts for children. In the light of this pending conflict between style edicts certain information about the ability of several kinds of cloth to stop ultraviolet rays is of interest.

A. Latzki is of the opinion that the type of weave and particularly the openness of a cloth is of more importance than the fiber which composes it or the color it is dyed. The United States bureau of standards says that only 5 to 15 percent of the ultraviolet gets through opaque clothing. White, in woolen garments, while 14 to 15 percent penetrates the openings in silk and cotton cloth. The color of the dye used influences these figures from 5 to 15 percent.

As to the size of the openings in the cloth the character of the fiber and the color of the cloth have something to do with penetration by ultraviolet. Latzki ascertained different kinds of cloth with bacteria and then exposed them to light. He judged of the penetrating power of the ultraviolet light by the rate at which bacteria were killed in the deep parts of the cloth as the result of ten minute exposures. He concluded that the undyed or white cloth—cotton, linen, and silk—were penetrated better than was wool. He found that black cloth protected better than white, or, to put it differently, ultraviolet goes through white cloth better than through black. This is not exactly in accord with the conclusion reached by Hess and Weinstein, but they approached the question from a somewhat different standpoint. In another experiment silk and linen were found to be more effective than cotton and wool. Cloth made from the new artificial fiber was not tested. There must be some confusion for a while. We need first to settle whether we need ultraviolet in summer. It is possible that in that season we may get too much of a good thing. After that is settled we will be in a position to decide what kind of garments to wear, including whether to go barelegged and barearmed.

REPLY: I am sure your trouble is not erysipelas. Erysipelas is acute. It does not hang on. Have a physician tell you what your trouble is.

UNDULATED COW'S MILK.

Mrs. J. Z. writes: My 17 months old baby is healthy and eats well. His foods consist of all cereals, all vegetables, whole wheat toast, fruit juices. I am still giving him protein milk with dextro maltose. Should I give him cow's milk? He seems to be thriving on the protein milk. I have tried giving him cow's milk and he does not dislike it. Is there as much value in cow's milk and would you advise giving it to him?

REPLY: A child of that age should have ordinary cow's milk undiluted. The emergency which caused you to give him protein milk and malt sugar has passed. In fact, you should be leading him toward the table.

BLOW ONE AT A TIME.

M. R. Q. writes: In blowing the nose, it is proper to blow one side at a time, or should both sides be blown simultaneously?

REPLY: One at a time and not too emphatic. Blowing both sides be excessive as to quality and quantity.

Don't say good-by to me!

Heh! Heh!

New York is trying to anticipate Chicago's World's Fair in 1933 by having a two years' celebration, '30 and '31, in honor of Publius Vergilius Maro, whose "Æneid," the New York papers say, is one of the most beautiful poems ever written. "Æneid" may be all of that, but until it has been accepted by the Book of the Month Club or else banned by the Boston Public Library, or both, it will never be much of a wow.

We're All Funny That Way.

There was a good deal of interest in Charley Dawes' speech at the Pilgrims' Dinner in London. But if you want to see real excitement, wait until Charley leaves the American embassy to attend his first formal party over at the King's house. He's got 'em on! "No, he hasn't!" "He has, too!" "Don't be silly; he has not!" And then the rioting will reach a stage the Coldstream Guards will be ordered out and the North Atlantic Fleet mobilized in the Thames.

Anyhow, He Should Have Had.

"I got a great kick—" said the very young sap who stowed away on the Yellow Bird in his newspaper story yesterday; and we put the paper right down and gave three rousing cheers. We hoped that the bird who gave it to him had on the heaviest kind of hobnailed boots. But then we picked up the rest of the paper, and all our cheering died away, for the sentence ended—"out of coming to Paris." Somebody, as Mr. Shakespeare has so well said, is always taking the joy out of life.

Dennis King, the Conductor of the Column of Columbian, will visit through next Sunday in front of the milk at W-G-N at 10:15 p. m. daylight saving plan. Said visit to continue until 10:40. Dennis wants all his friends to listen in. We don't know what he'll ask him to do. He said in his telegram yesterday: "No need to arrange anything stop just have pianist ready stop." So it will all be informal. This is entirely a voluntary affair on the part of Dinny. He does it like he does everything, because he wants to. And he wants to because he likes you.

Fifty so,
'Tis the beginning, not the end,
Now you must grow.

"A little learning is a dangerous thing,"
So spoke the sage,
To men and women, God's choicest gift
Is age.

Age lifts the mist from years,
Shows our true worth;
Never fear, time assigns us all
Our place on earth.

Walk humbly but look upward,
"See thou character."
True now as then,
Be not afraid, the crying need is men.

THERE'S A RULE now against shotguns and rifles for the dubs. But they can still have big guns like Bishop Cannon.

AND WHY HAND the rawberry to Mr. Volva for insisting so quaintly that the world is flat like a pancake? A large number of our worthy people agree with him that he did not come down from monkey ancestors. And a great many are in hearty accord with Mr. Volva about Jonah having rented a flat right in the middle of a whale's tummy. And think of all the people in these United States who firmly believe that the Scotch their bootleggers sell them came from Scotland!

NOT A SINGLE WORD have we heard from Gov. Bilbo of Mississippi since the White House Tea Party. We rather suspect that by this time he has marched down the Shenandoah, crossed the Potomac, and is ready to lay steps to Washington.

ANYHOW, whatever else you may say of Charley Dawes' plea in London the other night for peace and reduction of naval armament, you will have to admit that he crowded the Congressman Oscar De Priest story off the first page. (Excerpt in Texas, Oklahoma, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Arkansas, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, and Tennessee. And some sections of West Virginia, Kentucky, and Missouri.)

AND NOW we've got to get out the white flannel trousers and look at all the pretty holes the moths made in 'em. And then we have to take the pretty white flannel trousers and chuck 'em out the window and wonder how much the tailor is going to book us for another pair. If we had known about moths when we were in school we would have decided to be a tailor.

WONDER what Senator Hedin does when Congress is not in session. But he keeps in training by hitting himself in the ankle repeatedly and with great ferocity.

THE HANDICAP RACE

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 20, 1864.

WASHINGTON.—Official dispatches from City Point state that our army advanced on June 18 to within a mile in front of Petersburg, where the rebels were found occupying a new line of entrenchments. Successive assaults failed to carry the works, but our forces entrenched and held the advanced position. From the number of the enemy it is inferred that Beauregard has been reinforced from Lee's army. One report states that our loss was 6,000, and the enemy's still greater. Gen. Hardee's battle flag is among our trophies.

WASHINGTON.—

Gen. Sherman reports a victory over the rebels at Trevilian station on the Virginia Central railroad, south of Gordonsville, where a few days ago Gen. Lee reported a rebel victory over Sheridan.

LOUISVILLE.—

A staff officer from Sherman's front reports heavy fighting on June 15 on our left. Blair's corps was storming the enemy's works. Our whole army was in line and the firing was along the entire front. The rebels were being slowly driven back under artillery fire. On the night of the 15th Blair was reported south of the Chattanooga. Johnston had massed his artillery to prevent our right from crossing.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 20, 1899.

PARIS.—The French cabinet crisis is growing serious. President Loubet was unable to establish accord between himself and the colleagues chosen for his cabinet, and was reluctantly obliged to decline the mission of forming a cabinet which he had accepted.

LONDON.—The St. James Gazette prints what it states definitely is the Boer war campaign plan, in the event of hostilities with Great Britain. The Boers are to seize Kimberley on the Orange Free State border, blow up the diamond mines, seize the railroad to prevent the British advance, march into Cape Colony, capture Cape Town, and then dictate terms of peace.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.—

The death of Norman Williams of Chicago, which has been expected for some time, occurred at Little Boarshead, Hampton Beach, this afternoon. He was 65 years old and was a member of the Chicago bar for more than 35 years. He was accounted one of the wealthiest of Chicago's millionaires.

CHICAGO.—Miss Vinna Crandall, daughter of the Rev. Latham A. Crandall, and Harvey B. Hicks were married at the Memorial Baptist church, of which Dr. Crandall is pastor.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 20, 1919.

PARIS.—It is reported here that the Ebert cabinet in Germany, having refused to sign the peace treaty, Matthias Erbsberger, leader of the Catholic Center party in the Reichstag, and chairman of the armistice commission, has determined to form a new cabinet, which will sign.

CHICAGO.—As quiet as a phantom sped 10,000 feet up, and with just as much pep, Pat Maloney slipped into THE TRIBUNE office and planted his feet under the old desk for a visit with the old gang. They're all back now—and they're fighting it all over again. But this Pat [his full name is J. Loy Maloney] is different. He has a pair of R. M. A. wings and three gold overseas service chevrons, and his pilot book shows 250 hours in the air, 150 of which were over the Hies. He was with the famed 94th aero squadron—Eddie Rickenbacker's own. But Pat won't talk about one Lieut. J. Loy Maloney. O, yes, he was married in England to Miss Hilda G. Blackburn of Winchester. [Mr. Maloney is now assistant city editor of THE TRIBUNE.]

BRUSSELS.—The king and queen of Belgium said good-by to President and Mrs. Wilson after a day of functions and sight seeing that taxed the energies of every individual American in the party.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

DEFINING JULY 4.

Chicago, June 18.—"Disgraced Citizen" made a complaint about premature fireworks. The municipal code, Secs. 1236-1241, says: "Fireworks may not be used by unlicensed individuals except on July 4 or July 5 if Independence day falls on a Sunday. Sale of fireworks is limited between the first and fourth of July, inclusive."

To prevent the sale of fireworks within the city limits before July 1 is the first duty of the police. How the police department is neglecting to enforce the ordinance we can hear every day. A small part of these fireworks perage is bought outside the city limits and probably cannot be stopped.

But the use of fireworks before July 4 can be stopped if the policemen on their beat are not totally deaf. A general order from police headquarters to arrest anybody shooting off fireworks before and after July 4 would give us a chance to sleep—also the sick people would benefit.

ELIMINATING FIRECRACKERS.

Chicago, June 12.—I heartily agree with the remarks made by "A Disgraced Citizen" as to premature fireworks. I am a teacher and I have done and shall continue to do my bit toward impressing my pupils with three reasons for abstaining—the danger to themselves, the extreme annoyance to others, and their duty to obey the law.

However, it is the parents, rather than their offspring, who need educating. If parents refused to furnish money to purchase these dangerous and noisy contrabands and refused to allow the children to use them if obtained otherwise, the nuisance would abate.

Also, if the police would gather up a few loads of offenders and keep them at the station until their parents released them by paying a fine, I'll wager the trouble would soon end.

If residents in any community are determined to accomplish a thing they can do it. They can report every case of violation whether it be by the storekeeper or the purchaser.

Last year the annoyance was beyond words. There was a time only a few years ago when THE TRIBUNE did a great service in promoting the "Sane Fourth." Why cannot the same condition be brought about again?

ANOTHER DISGRACED CITIZEN.

MRS. DE PRIEST AT THE WHITE HOUSE. Chicago, June 18.—Mrs. Hoover would have abused her position if she had stooped to the prejudices of a section of the country whose principal contribution to American progress was a rebellion to disintegrate the United States at the land and out down its representation in congress to conform to its disfranchisement of Negroes the reception list at the White House would be shortened considerably. And congressional ladies from the south would not have to worry about slipping tea at White House receptions with Mrs. De Priest.

Mr. De Priest is a duly elected and qualified congressman chosen to represent his district by a majority of his constituents as prescribed by the laws of the land. Any insult offered Mr. De Priest is an insult to the citizens of the district.

BLAME DEATH OF THREE CHILDREN ON FOOD POISON

Father and Mother Show Symptoms of Illness.

The poison which has taken the lives of three children of the Irving Markowski family, 4554 Milwaukee avenue, and stricken two other children and the father and mother, all of whom are under treatment, must be a food poison, Coroner Herman N. Burdick, Dr. Ralph W. Webster, his chief chemist, and Prof. Edward O. Jordan, bacteriologist of the University of Chicago, decided last night.

One of the possibilities that it might be one of the more common poisons such as arsenic, mercury, a metal poison, or a volatile poison such as wood alcohol or chloroform, have been eliminated by tests and analyses made upon the organs of the dead children, and late last night the problem was yet unsolved. All of the children, who are old enough to talk, have been in a comatose condition, and the father and mother have been unable to furnish case histories of the illness, which might have furnished a clue to the nature of the poison.

Process Is Difficult.

"Arsenic or mercury poisoning, or any of the other well known poisons show themselves quickly under examination," Dr. Webster explained yesterday afternoon. "This is true also of the volatile poisons. But the chloroform, morphine, strychnine, cocaine, atropine, for instance, demand analysis taking more time."

"A food poison is not so easily checked. In what is commonly known as staphylococcal poisoning, the poisons (staphylococcal bacilli) formed by the action of the bacteria upon food constituents, must be isolated before we know they exist. Another bacillus, known as the one operating in this instance, is that called botulinus which exists in undercooked canned vegetables and grains. It is often extremely difficult to check this bacillus within the organs of the body, and we may never know what has been the cause in this, as in many other cases of poisoning. We are at present working on a group of foods taken from the Markowski household, and we are also checking by the rather lengthy distillation process for staphylococci within the organs of the dead children. Every possible means is being taken to determine the poison."

Parents Appear Ill.

Lorraine Markowski, 8 years old, died at the County hospital early yesterday morning, the third of the family to die. Her half-brother, Richard, 6 years old, and a baby sister, Doris, are in serious condition at the County hospital. Both father and mother, detained at the Psychopathic hospital, appear to show effects of a poison, it was reported last night.

Mexico Awaits Pope's O. K. on Terms of Peace Pact

BY JOHN CORNYN.

(Chicago Press Service.)

MEXICO CITY, June 19.—A storm of protest has arisen from the ultra-radicals, headed by Adolfo Tejeda, governor of the state of Vera Cruz and former minister of the interior, in an attempt to force the Mexican government to refuse to sign the agreement settling the Catholic difficulties, on which President Portes Gil and the papal delegates, Magr. Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, archbishop of Mexico, and Magr. Pascual Diaz, bishop of Toluca, have been conferring.

Señor Tejeda has stirred up various labor organizations, from which telegrams have been sent to President Portes Gil urging that he come to no settlement of the religious difficulties. It was stated in both Catholic and governmental circles today that practically all difficulties have been surmounted, and the result communicated to the pope. The situation now depends on Rome, where the papal authorities are studying the terms of the agreement.

Much Depends on Agreement.

"Both parties to the negotiations have realized from the first the tremendous responsibility resting on them," said a person in touch with the negotiations. "Failure to come to an agreement would mean undoubtedly a continuance of the unequal struggle of the Catholics against the government's strength, and the consequent sacrifice of many lives. Both the government and the church are anxious to avoid further conflict and leave the field open for the rehabilitation of Mexico."

"The government program for the reconstruction of the country, financially and socially, cannot be carried out successfully until peace reigns throughout Mexico, and complete peace is impossible as long as military forces are holding the hills in five or more states. The Catholic church holds the key to pacification of Mexico."

A prominently connected go-between in the negotiations for the settlement of the church trouble said today:

"The government aims to unite all Mexico in an effort to redeem the country from illiteracy, poverty, and the ignorance of the Indians and laboring masses. It realizes what important part the Catholic church can play in reconstruction if the church question is settled satisfactorily. "The conciliatory attitude of both parties toward an agreement has worked wonders in spiriting out of the way difficulties which but a few months ago were thought insurmountable."

BY ARMENO LOTTI JR.

Editor and Co-Editor of the Yellow Bird's Flight. World Copyright, 1929, by the New York Times Company and The Chicago Tribune. All Rights Reserved. Special Cable to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.

PARIS, June 19.—(P)—President Doumergue, the French senate, the chamber of deputies and the Paris municipal authorities united today in welcoming the three French transatlantic aviators, Jean Asollant, Rene Lefevre, and Armeno Lotti Jr. The young American stowaway on the flight on the Yellow Bird, Arthur Schreiber of Portland, Me., was absent from all the ceremonies.

The only reference made to the now downcast stowaway was in the senate, where Senator Gaston Monier, president of the aviation commission, said: "Were Schreiber here I should tell him, 'we forgive you because of your youth and your American nationality'."

President Doumergue kept the aviators at the Palace of the Elisee, the French White House, for more than half an hour. He was particularly interested in Asollant's explanation of the difficulties caused in taking off by the extra weight of the stowaway.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today cabled his congratulations to the flyers.

They would certainly be useful in case of emergency but just when such an emergency might arise it might happen that the island would be completely covered by fog and this would make a landing extremely dangerous.

These taking off and landing places will have to be sheltered for the open sea both on the American and European sides is usually too rough or at least cannot be depended on.

Just as it took us nearly a year of study to get our Bernard plane to the point of perfection which would make our flight possible, it will take years of study and slow improvements to build these new air liners. They will have to be multiple motored. The days of trying to fly the Atlantic with a single motor are practically over. They will have to be of big tonnage. Only hydroplanes will be used. They will have to be able to fly at a very high altitude to escape cloud banks and winds and they will have to be specially constructed to resist cold.

For guidance wireless will have to be more completely perfected with short wave lengths which carry far. Possibly floating islands will have to be constructed, though it is by all means preferable that flights should be made in a single jump for reasons which we will explain.

Clouds and Fog Chief Difficulty.

On our flight we found that the principal difficulty is likely to be clouds and fog. We scarcely saw the sun at all during the whole two days we passed in the air, and during our one night flight we had a clear view of the moon and stars for only about two hours. That entails an enormous strain both on the pilot and on the navigator.

We had to fly between cloudy banks or dodge in and out between heavy clouds the whole time, and as every pilot knows, there is nothing more tiring than flying that way, blind. Clarence Chamberlin told us that during his flight there were moments when he was so utterly tired of flying through cloud and fog that he was strongly tempted to just give up. Asollant had the same experience. The strain on a thirty hour flight is terrible.

Must Fly Automatically.

These new air liners, therefore, must be designed to fly themselves automatically, leaving the pilot free just to control altitude and direction. If these air liners are to avoid fog and cloud they must be able to rise to a great altitude. That will necessitate special wing construction and also the invention of a perfected means of changing the angle of propeller blades while in the air.

Fog will always be the greatest enemy of airmen and by the development of wireless every security must be given the pilot for keeping his direction. It is for which is an argument against the development of floating islands. They would certainly be useful in case of emergency but just when such an emergency might arise it might happen that the island would be completely covered by fog and this would make a landing extremely dangerous.

The constructor's aim must, therefore, be to develop a plane which will be able to make a complete crossing from one landing lake to the other. These taking off and landing places will have to be sheltered for the open sea both on the American and European sides is usually too rough or at least cannot be depended on.

PRESIDENT OF FRANCE AND PARLIAMENT UNITE IN HONORING FLYERS

PARIS, June 19.—(P)—President Doumergue, the French senate, the chamber of deputies and the Paris municipal authorities united today in welcoming the three French transatlantic aviators, Jean Asollant, Rene Lefevre, and Armeno Lotti Jr. The young American stowaway on the flight on the Yellow Bird, Arthur Schreiber of Portland, Me., was absent from all the ceremonies.

The only reference made to the now downcast stowaway was in the senate, where Senator Gaston Monier, president of the aviation commission, said: "Were Schreiber here I should tell him, 'we forgive you because of your youth and your American nationality'."

President Doumergue kept the aviators at the Palace of the Elisee, the French White House, for more than half an hour. He was particularly interested in Asollant's explanation of the difficulties caused in taking off by the extra weight of the stowaway.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today cabled his congratulations to the flyers.

QUINN ORDERLY, POLLS PEACEFUL, WITNESSES SAY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Willie Washington, robbery, sentenced to 1 year in life in the penitentiary by Judge D. J. Norbury.

"Prince" Arthur Quinn, Democratic boss of the 42nd ward, created no disturbances at the mayoralty election of 1927 and acted as a thorough gentleman, according to the testimony given for the defense yesterday by a policeman, a lawyer and a citizen, in Judge Harry B. Miller's criminal court.

The defense witnesses painted a picture of complete order and tranquility in contrast with the charges made by the state witnesses that Quinn brandished a revolver, stole ballots from the box and remarked them to suit himself.

Policeman J. Naughton, who was detailed at the 23rd precinct polling place, said he saw no violence, disorder or violation of the election laws. The only thing to disturb the calm of a peaceful day was the appearance at the polling place of a "drunk," he said. Attorney Sam A. Marchmont, 901 Margate terrace, and Robert R. McFarland, 474 North La Salle street, were the other defense witnesses.

Attorneys Thomas D. Nash and Joseph Kolb announced that Quinn and his four co-defendants would start taking the witness stand this morning.

Grocer Held After Employee Is Found Slain in Store

Anton Kasulis, 38 years old, 2225 South Western avenue, a grocer, was held at the Marquette police station last night for an inquest into the death of Casimir Leplinski, who was found dying in the basement of Kasulis' store, where he was employed as a handy man. Leplinski's head had been beaten in by a hammer and police said Kasulis admitted the murder but was unable to give a coherent account of it. Neighbors said Kasulis' mind was seriously affected following the death of his wife two months ago. Police believe he was suffering from an hallucination that Leplinski was trying to poison him.

BURDEN OF WHITE HOUSE APPEALS, COOLIDGE WRITES

Tells of Responsibilities of Presidency.

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—A President of the United States actually possesses more power than kings and emperors, and the burden of the office is "appalling," Calvin Coolidge declared in his latest literary work, which will appear tomorrow in the American Magazine.

"A power so vast in its implications has never been conferred upon any ruling sovereign," the former President says.

"While it is wise for the President to get all the competent advice possible," he continues, "final judgments are necessarily his own. No one can share with him the responsibility for them. He stands in the center of things where no one else can stand."

Calls Burden Appalling.

"If others make mistakes they can be relieved and oftentimes a remedy can be provided. But the President cannot retire. His decisions are final and usually irrevocable. This constitutes the appalling burden of the office."

Mr. Coolidge points out that the actual duties of the President are only briefly outlined in the constitution, but that every new administration faces problems that require presidential decisions and, as a result, new presidential power.

He gives as an example Jefferson's negotiation of the Louisiana purchase. Jefferson himself doubted at first that the constitution gave him the right to alter the area of the nation, but when the facts were obtained he found full power to proceed.

Powers Constantly Increasing.

These constantly increasing new powers, together with the power to call for declaration of war, direct the collection of billions of dollars in taxes and disburse these funds, and personally represent the nation, place upon the President in a few brief paragraphs in the constitution will be found sufficient to provide for the welfare of the country. That is all he needs."

EVANSTON TO HAVE $700,000 NURSES' HOME

Completion of a new $700,000 nurses' home at the Evanston hospital is scheduled for Jan. 1, next year, in a contract awarded yesterday to Schmidt Bros. Inc. The building will be four stories high and built in the colonial style of pressed brick and stone. It will contain 216 sleeping rooms for nurses, in addition to spacious living rooms, a theater, infirmary, laboratory, and lecture rooms.

The building will be known as Patten hall, in memory of the late James A. Patten, who was a generous benefactor of the hospital during his lifetime. It is to be located just south of the west building, on the Grand avenue side of the hospital grounds.

Authorities of the hospital say its construction will make possible the housing on the grounds of the institution all the student nurses now scattered for several blocks along Ridge avenue, and will facilitate the working out of the cooperative training plan existing between the hospital and Northwestern university.

Jury Finds Former Realty Man Guilty of Pandering

Sol M. Bloch, once a reputedly wealthy realty dealer of Maywood, yesterday was found guilty by a jury in Municipal Judge Samuel H. Truett's court on a charge of pandering. Bloch's counsel will argue a motion for a new trial on next Tuesday. According to the evidence Bloch tried to escape a young woman to work in an apartment he had at 941 W. Madison. Conviction on the charge carries a jail sentence and a $200 fine.

Two Evanston Beaches, Damaged by Lake, Opened

Two of the Evanston beaches, which were damaged by spring storms on the lake, were declared officially open yesterday by Superintendent of Recreation W. C. Bechtold. They were the Sheridan Square and Calvary beaches, and many bathers flocked to each. The other beaches will be opened as quickly as their damages can be repaired, the superintendent announced.

RADIO MONOPOLY ESTABLISHED BY CHINA MINISTRY

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) SHANGHAI, China, June 19.—The Nationalist ministry of communications today followed up the action of the Kuomintang central executive committee pertaining to the annihilation of all radio and air mail service under the ministry's control by petitioning the state council to order the national construction commission to cease immediately all radio traffic pending the taking over of all new stations.

The chief cause for apprehension, however, lies in the fact that the ministry of communications is heavily indebted to British and Danish cable companies, as a result of which it is feared the new Chinese-American radio alliance is likely to suffer from prejudice in favor of the cable monopoly.

Immediately following the inauguration of a new radio circuit several months ago between China and America, which was negotiated by the national construction commission and the Radio Corporation of America, the ministry of communications started a rival service through Germany. The former service has proved the superior one, however, leading to the belief that European cable monopoly is secretly behind the communications ministry in its attempt to stifle the development of the competing American radio.

Reigh Count Runs in Famed Ascot Today

is its destination this year. Reigh Count has been specially "tuned up" for this particular race. Two and a half miles is declared to be just Reigh Count's distance.

Three of the best French stayers are also in the race—Cacao, Ori de Guerre, who won the French St. Leger last autumn, and Palais Royal II, winner of the English Cambridgehire last year. Such an attacking force from France and America seems overwhelming in the eyes of most British experts.

NO LUCK YESTERDAY
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, June 19.—Mrs. John D. Horta's entry, Improperly, wasn't in it today in the Royal Hunt feature race at Ascot, which was won by Lord Michelham's French-bred Songe, with Harry Wragg up. Improperly was a 100 to 1 chance, and ran like it, finishing near the last.

Gypsy King, owned by the Chicagoan, which started a 7 to 1 favorite in the Beasbrook stakes, also gave a disappointing exhibition, finishing third, four lengths behind the winner, Siegfried, with Wragg, who was a double winner today, up again.

Gypsy King trailed Adieu, F. W. Hollock's outsider, which was second by three lengths.

THE PRIZE WINNERS
in the Charles Denby Cigar
Smokers Contest
$2500.00 Awarded to 348 Smokers

The $2500.00 cash prize contest for the smokers of the Charles Denby Cigar has ended and checks mailed to the winners. The great avalanche of letters that poured in from the thousands of contestants all over the country, kept the judges and a large staff of assistants working, day and night, for more than two weeks. So excellent and enthusiastic were the many thousands of letters that it was very difficult for the judges to come to a decision. The final awards were made to 348 Charles Denby smokers for telling H. Fendrich, Inc., Evansville, Ind., the makers of the Charles Denby, in the best way, the secret of its nation-wide popularity, why they like the Charles Denby better than any other cigar, and why smokers stick to and swear by it year after year.

While practically every one of these thousands attributed the Charles Denby's high favor with the nation's smokers to its "Total difference in taste" both during and after smoking, a large percentage maintained that it was mostly due to the fact that "This Makers Had Kept Faith With the Smokers" throughout the 30 years it had been on the market, "without ever a change in its taste, quality, fragrance or flavor, either in times of peace or war."

Thousands wrote that it is the "Charles Denby's" "Mellow Midway" "Delightful blend of fine, old, long-filler cigar tobacco that didn't crumble in the mouth," its "Straight shape for easy smoking and even burn," its "Distinctive aroma and fragrance, so pleasing to the 'smoker's' nose," as well as to the smokers' "taste buds." "Most strongly stressed was the 'Difference in Taste, both during, and after smoking.' Young men stated that it was the only cigar that ever made them quit smoking cigarettes.

Others, its "Factory Freshness, Exceptional Value," and its "Wine-like, flavored Taste and Harmonious Aroma." "The same good, old smoke you used to get for a nickel." "There was never a cigar made to taste like it," said hundreds of others.

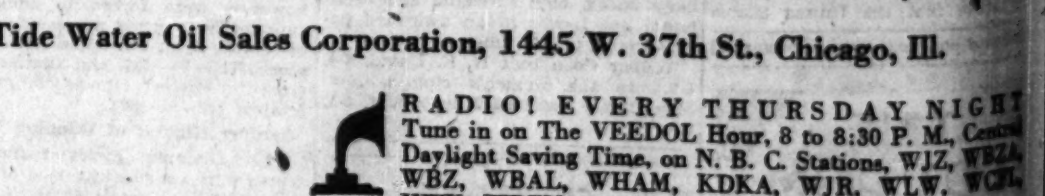

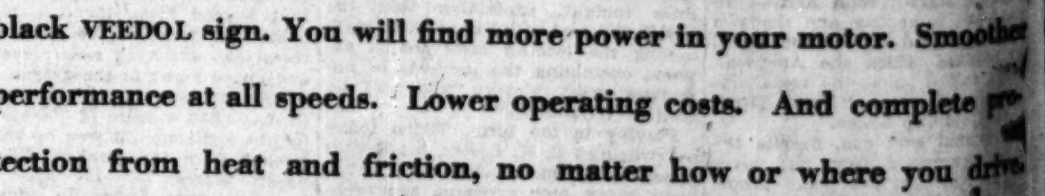

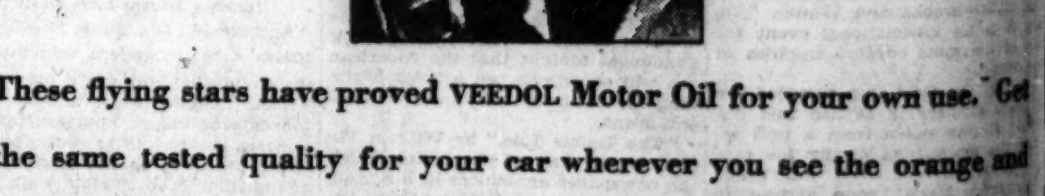

THE JUDGES were: Hon. F. Harold Van Orman, former Lieut. Governor, Indianapolis, and President of the Van Orman Hotels Co.; A. A. Brennan, Vice-President, Keller-Crescent Printing & Engraving Co., Evansville, Ind.; Arthur P. Eber, Secretary-Manager, Chamber of Commerce, Evansville, Ind.; Attest: A. G. Holender, Director of Advertising, Evansville Courier-Journal, Evansville, Ind.

MAJOR PRIZE WINNERS
FIRST PRIZE — Class "A" — $500: Henry E. Bryan, Commercial Art and Engraving, 627 Security Building, Toledo, Ohio.
"An economical cigar smoke with a rich, mellow, wine-like, flavored taste, exceptionally fine aroma and harmonious fragrance." Class "B" — $500: Michael B. Redding, Attorney, 216 Indiana Trust Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

SECOND PRIZE — Class "A" — $250: Prof. John M. Martin, Head Master of Rugby School, 125 Glenbrook Ave., Dayton, O.

FRIAR BELL, 39-1 SHOT, WINS RACE FOR 2 YEAR OLDS

Given Brilliant Ride by Shropshire.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Eastern turfmen sent out their best two year olds to furnish the contest in the Windsor purse at Washington Park yesterday, and it brought the widest betting struggle of the season in Chicago.

Willie Sharpe Kilmer was represented by his Sir Martin filly, Lady Buyer, a recent winner at Belmont Park. The crowd plunged on her until the odds dropped to even money.

The Rancocas stable had Labor carrying the familiar white and green. The son of Lucille also came in for a heavy play. Blue John was Dupont's Fox Catcher Farm color bearer. He had his followers. And W. R. Coe sent Friar Bell, a daughter of Frigate Rock-Lady Belle, into the struggle with Jockey Shropshire on her back.

Only a few small speculators who back Shropshire on every horse played Friar Bell, she was at 9 to 1 in the betting.

Friar Bell by 2 Lengths.

Then while the plungers were groaning and the Shropshire backers were shouting, Friar Bell took the lead a dozen strides after the start. She still was showing the way as she flew down the homestretch, and she was winning by a margin of two lengths.

Lady Buyer, away late in the field of seven, got considerably the worst of the deal from Jockey C. E. Allen. And Friar Bell, the long shot, could have been piloted by Green or Archer and she couldn't have received a better ride than the one Shropshire gave her. Shropshire rode Allen at every turn, and it was his alertness at the barrier that gave him his margin of victory.

After his slow getaway, Jockey Allen rushed Lady Buyer up on the outside and at the turn he started taking her around the field. There isn't any question about the speed of this filly. She had the track steepled and passed them all except Friar Bell as she straightened out into the stretch.

Friar Bell's time for the 5 furlongs was 1:24 3/4, and the complete mutual price against her was $79.52 to win, $16.72 to place and $4.38 to show.

The Greenwood purse, a dash at a mile which engaged 3 year olds including two leading candidates for the $10,000 Illinois Oaks to be run on Saturday, also brought the downfall of the favorite when Joss Spencer's Willa could do no better than finish third. Lito, the California colt, was the winner and Princess Edith second.

Lito ran the mile in 1:29 3/4, it being the fastest race of the day. His mutual price was $7.44. It was Shropshire's third victory of the day when he scored with Lito. He had won the first race on the Kentucky filly, Rosa O'Neill.

ACTIVE SUMMER SEEMS ASSURED IN STEEL, AUTOS

Seasonal Business Is Booming.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The two largest American industries, steel and automobiles, now are virtually assured of an unusually active summer. Steel production for June and July is expected to set new high records for those months, while output of motor vehicles this month will set a record for June.

"The steel industry is reducing its backlog in various products," the Iron Age says in its weekly review, "but output promises to continue virtually at capacity for the rest of the month and, according to forecasts of the trade, will not drop below a 90 per cent rate in July.

The falling off in steel consumption is confined mainly to the automobile and building industries. Motor car production, however, is still larger than usual for this time of year. The decline from peak specifications in automobile output is estimated at 15 per cent, which represents only 3 or 4 per cent of total finished steel output.

Plans to increase production, after the springing out of new models next month, may soon be reflected in a rebound in steel requirements.

The increasing diversification of demand helps explain the steady increase in steel production and the fall of some of them, so far at least, to experience material decline in specifications. In the Chicago district mill deliveries show little improvement in output and the shortage of semi-finished steel is as acute as sixty days ago.

"It still is characteristic of all markets that their activity is seasonally high," the Iron Trade says. "Mill operations are fortified by backlogs unusually heavy for late June. Steel corporation subsidiaries this week are at practical capacity, compared with 192 per cent a week ago. Independents are at 84 per cent, giving the industry an average of 94 per cent, against 94 per cent last week.

Auto Business Good.

James A. Campbell, president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, expects profits for the first half of 1929 to establish new high records.

"The automobile industry has entered the third week of June with heavy manufacturing schedules prevailing at a large number of the factories," Automotive Industries says. "There are indications that the seasonal recession in production, long anticipated for the final days of this month, will not be as pronounced as previously estimated. It is considered not improbable that the total output for this month will establish a new record for June, exceeding the previous record of 425,185, established in 1923. Factories now preparing for the production of new vehicles have indicated plans for high output scheduled in July. With such plans in prospect, it appears fairly likely that a new output record also will be set this year for July.

Simultaneous with the valuation announcement by the commission Thomas W. Hulme, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad in charge of real estate, taxes and valuation, issued a statement in which he said the findings of the commission were for a period from ten to fifteen years ago and are not reflective of present conditions.

The valuation was decided as of Jan. 15 before the decision of the United States Supreme court in the O'Fallon valuation case.

A valuation of $231,974,380 was placed by the commission upon the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railway and ten small railroads, also a part of the Pennsylvania system.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick Makes $11,000,000 Offering

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) New York, June 19.—An offering of $11,000,000 collateral trust five year 6 per cent gold notes of the 20th Rockefeller McCormick trust, due July 1, 1934, will be made tomorrow by a group headed by the Guaranty company of New York, and including the Foreman Securities company. The issue is being sold at 99 1/2 and accrued interest. Proceeds of the issue are to be applied towards the payment of bank loans and obligations on real estate owned by the trust and to supply additional working capital. The 20th Rockefeller McCormick trust was organized in 1923 by Mrs. McCormick for the purpose of consolidating certain of her holdings and for the operation and development of real estate property.

Waterways Seen Able to Prove Success

BY SCRUTATOR.

Advocates of waterway development are frequently called on to answer the charge that water borne traffic is anachronistic and comparable in relationship to modern life to a return to the saddle horse as a serious method of land transport.

Among the critics may be mentioned Prof. George W. Stephens of the Washington university, who said in a speech at St. Louis recently: "We are going back in memory to the old steamboat days of the thirties, forties and fifties, recalling well the significance of that type of transportation and its decline after the civil war. We had come to believe that somehow the nature of that form of transportation was such as to cause it to take its place with the old stage coach; that time had forced it into the background forever. Notwithstanding the fact, cities up and down the river are voting money at the present time for the building of docks, wharves, elevators, and congress is appropriating money for the establishment of regular service."

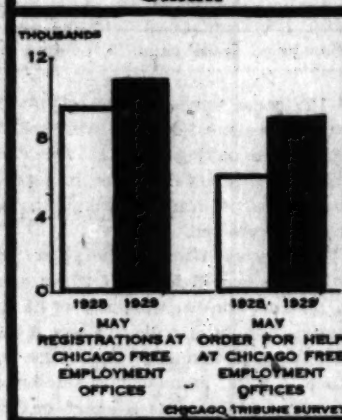

Voices Usual Complaints. Prof. Stevens, after voicing the usual complaints that the favorable showing made by the large lines on the Mississippi and Warrior rivers is due to the fact that they pay no taxes, stated: "I should be willing to argue that no one, and I make no exceptions, has demonstrated for a moment that in the long run this nation is going to be justified in expending the amount of money contemplated for waterways."

There are, of course, waterways and waterways. It is often charged that the New York barge canal is a source of great loss to the citizens of that state. On the basis of money spent and the total tonnage passing over its various parts the showing at present is poor. But it should be remembered, too, that it was only after this waterway was completed that New York became the great port of the country, outstripping Boston and Philadelphia, which for long were in the lead.

It has been charged, too, that this canal was choked by the railroads. The mere fact that 315 long bridges, many of them railroad structures, cross it is a sufficient explanation why it is not used more.

Outclass Old Style Boats. The railroads, as a matter of fact, owe a great deal to the old waterways. In the central portion of the country many of them were started as feeders for the steamboats. Later, when consolidation of rails had gone forward far enough, one road put the steamboats out of business by rate manipulation that finally resulted in the passage of the interstate commerce act and the regulation under which they now suffer.

Mark Twain's river boats and the little barge dragged along by the rules on the towpath are antiquities, but the self-propelled barge with its tow of several miles is no more comparable to these than the wood burning locomotive of eighty or ninety years ago is to the mountain climbing oil burner of today.

Intercoastal traffic suffered with that on the inland waterways by railroad competition. But wise expenditures of late have brought a return of some of it. From the Gulf to Houston, Tex., fifty miles inland, a channel was driven nearly thirty years ago. Local industries paid half the cost and the government the remainder. In 1917 this port had a tonnage little more than a million and a half. But in 1919 legislation was passed to widen and deepen it and the annual traffic now is around thirteen million tons.

Waterways that go where traffic is successful.

SUPREME COURT OF ILL. FROWNS ON CORP. NAME

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Springfield, Ill., June 19.—The Supreme court today denied the petition for mandamus by which the Bankers company of New York sought to compel the secretary of state to issue it a license to do business in Illinois, under the general corporation law. The secretary refused the license on the grounds that the name "Bankers Company" would create the impression that the company was a bank. The court's opinion sustains the secretary.

WRIGLEY CORP. BOOSTS ANNUAL DIVIDEND RATE

Inaugurates System of Split Payments.

Stockholders of the William Wrigley Jr. company, Chicago chewing gum manufacturers, are going to get larger dividends and in a way that will help relieve the burden of income taxes. The directors yesterday increased the annual rate from $3 to $4 and inaugurated a "split payment" system, effective next December.

Dividends of 25 cents were declared, payable Sept. 2, Oct. 1 and Nov. 1, and a dividend of 50 cents was declared. Chairman William Wrigley Jr. said the company next year will pay dividends of 25 cents a month, but will double the rate every third month. Thus, stockholders will receive 50 cents on the first day of March, June, September and December, which are the months in which federal taxes are payable.

Stock Dividend of 100 Per Cent. A 100 per cent stock dividend and doubling of its cash dividend rate were announced yesterday by the Tennant Finance corporation of Chicago. The stock dividend is payable in no par stock and the cash dividend amounts to 20 cents quarterly, which is double the rate of the last two years. The corporation was arranged to purchase the assets of the Tennant Mortgage Investment company, paying 20,000 shares of its no par stock. The First National bank of Boston declared an initial quarterly dividend of 80 cents a share on the new $20 par stock, thus placing the stock on a $120 annual dividend basis. That rate is equal to $16 a share on the $100 par value stock. The old stock has been split five for one. The Merchants Trust and Savings bank, Chicago, declared an extra dividend of 3 per cent. The Commercial Trust company of New Jersey has declared an extra of 2 per cent, in addition to the regular quarterly of 4 per cent. The extra represents an increase of 1 per cent over that paid in the previous quarter.

Other Extras. The Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company has ordered an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on the common in addition to a regular dividend.

Utilities Fan Trading Fires in Curb Mart

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) New York, June 19.—An unabated enthusiasm for the utility issues, fanned by reports of power mergers and melons for stockholders, kept prices on the uptick in trading on the curb exchange today. Such utilities as Electric Bond and Share, Electric Investors, Midwest Utilities and Central States Electric continued their recent steady march into new high ground.

Central States Electric, following the recent declaration of a 200 per cent stock dividend, again was an outperformer. The convertible preferred shares shot up 21 points and the old and new stocks climbed to record heights by adding to their recent gains.

Electric Investors also made another high at 190 1/2 on reports of a stock bonus or split up, while Electric Bond and Share, an investment favorite, left its previous high behind when it reached 111 1/2, up 5 1/2. Cities Service, another investment stock, continued active and advanced within a fraction of its year's high.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, after its violent fluctuations yesterday, and Penn Water and Power resumed their advances. The street hears there is a deal pending between the two. Penn Water already supplies a large part of the electricity distributed by Consolidated Gas of Baltimore.

EXPANSION OF LOFT CO. WILL REACH CHICAGO

Merger Nears with Curtiss Candy.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) New York, June 19.—An expansion program has been launched by the new management of Loft, Inc., which recently acquired control of that candy company after a sharp battle for proxies, which will extend the field of operations as far east as Massachusetts and as far west as Chicago.

About to Close Deal. The company is about to close a deal for acquisition of a large group of candy stores in the metropolitan district. It is also near conclusion of negotiations for the Curtiss Candy company of Chicago, and is also considering the acquisition of Page & Shaw, well known candy manufacturers and distributors in New York and Massachusetts.

The group of confectionery stores in the metropolitan district which has been virtually acquired consists of 61 independent retail establishments with net profits of $450,000 a year, assembled by E. L. O'Hara & Co., investment bankers at 150 Broadway. The stores were culled out of 350 separate places considered. The investment in those stores will involve an outlay of $2,500,000, funds for which will be provided through the sale of additional stock to shareholders.

Does Big Business. Rights to subscribe to the stock issue, consisting of 850,000 shares, were mailed out today. The subscription price to shareholders is $2.50 a share. If the entire issue is taken the company will realize a total of $2,125,000. The Curtiss deal is one of substantial amount. The company does a business of approximately $14,000,000 a year and has inventories amounting to $7,500,000. It is reported to do business with 9,000 jobbers and more than a million dealers in candy.

BY FRED HARVEY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) New York, June 19.—The stock market simmered and stewed for five steaming hours today and wound up a pretty sorry looking mess. Transactions fell off to about 1,000,000 shares and outside of the utilities which came in for some more really profitable attention prices did not move very fast in either direction. The close was irregularly lower.

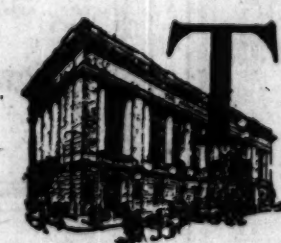

It was one of the dullest markets the street has witnessed in nearly a year. The ranks of the trading element were further thinned by another day of 90 degrees heat and the never say die rear guard merely went through the motions for the most part. As is usually the case on such days an assortment of selected stocks were bid up somewhat smartly to make the market look better than it really was. Heavy profit taking, particularly in the utilities division, caused many of the more active issues to decline.

Generally Favorable. News was generally favorable, particularly as it bore on the credit situation, involving taking of a total of more than $2,000,000 additional gold largely in the Argentine but with another small lot engaged at London for transfer here.

Demand money was a trifle firmer in the afternoon, the early 1/4 per cent quoted in the outside market disappearing around midday, but with

Manufacture of Tobacco Products a Southern Industry steadily growing

Centuries ago a pronged pipe, which drew the smoke of "Vppwoc" to their nostrils, was named by American Indians "Tabaco." Since then Tobacco has become a great American business.

Our Tobacco products are now valued around $400,000,000 annually. The South grows nearly 85% of our crop, manufactures about 75% of our cigarettes, has over 700 tobacco factories.

Keeping pace with Southern expansion, tobacco manufacturers are spending millions additional in Southern plants. Wherever one looks in the South, large corporations, variously employed, are found busily erecting new plants and equipment.

Southern securities present exceptional opportunities. Caldwell & Company, for many years investment bankers in the South, suggest "Shares in the South, Inc." an investment trust carefully diversifying its funds in sound, promising Southern securities. Write for details.

PLAN $335,000 BUILDING FOR SAGINAW-79TH

Will Contain 42 Flats and 7 Stores.

BY AL CHASE.

Andrew Ringman, real estate dealer, who recently purchased the south-west corner of East 79th street and Saginaw avenue from Oscar C. Hagen, states that work will start on a three-story building within three or four weeks. Kocher & Larson are drawing plans for a structure to contain thirty-two apartments and seven stores. The suites will have three and four rooms and will be unfurnished. The total investment in the building will be in the neighborhood of $335,000, it is reported. The site is 12,000 sq. ft.

Edwin G. Foreman Jr. has purchased the residence at 378 Forest avenue, Chicago, for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $42,500. The residence, which contains about ten rooms, occupies a lot approximately 17,000 sq. ft. D'Ancos & Pflaum, attorneys for the buyer and Carl Lester of Walter P. Smith & Co. was broker.

Bills Realty to Expand.
Stockholders of Bills Realty, Inc., have authorized the increase of the capital of the corporation to $1,000,000 and the absorption of the Bill Trust company, which had a capital of $250,000. Benjamin F. Bills, chairman of the consolidated corporation, stated that a program of expansion is back of the corporate change.

John J. Ellsworth has sold to Elmer A. Lanning the two-story store and building at the northwest corner of Ridgefield avenue and Lake street, Oak Park, containing ten suites, four stores and two offices. The residence at 118 Lake street, Oak Park, was given in part payment. W. G. Kirby & Co. represented both parties.

North La Salle Street Sale.
Mrs. Arthur B. Glade sold the 26x115 ft. lot at 186 North La Salle street, adjoining the northwest corner of North avenue, to Dahl & Stedman, builders, for a reported $50,000. This gives Dahl & Stedman a site fronting seven-tenths of a block on La Salle and 115 ft. of North avenue. It is understood that there are no immediate plans for building.

The real estate loan department of the State Bank of Chicago will have its annual outing at the Shorewood Golf club at Round Lake next Sunday.

CONVERTIBLES EXPAND AGAIN IN BOND MART
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
New York, June 19.—Another broad market was enjoyed by the convertible bonds today, which imparted a little of their buoyancy to the rest of the Community. The volume of trading climbed to the highest figure in some time.

Activity of the share privilege group was again centered around the telephone exchange, International and American 4s. The former touched 12 1/2, a new high, but later receded to 12 1/4, off 1/4 on a large turnover. The American company's bonds set a fast pace on the tape, but moved with a narrow price range as transactions fell slightly behind the volume of Tuesday.

Public Service of New Jersey 4 1/2% mounted to another new 1929 high at 21 1/2, up 1/4. Brooklyn Union Gas convertible 4 1/2% changed hands at 40, a gain of 46 points from the last sale.

Rails were steady. Strength appeared on small transactions in Northern Southern 5s, series A, New Haven 5s, and New Orleans, Texas and Mexico 5s. While Missouri Pacific 5s, International Great Northern 5s, and Baltimore and Ohio 4s, Toledo and Cincinnati division, and Chesapeake and Ohio 5s eased off.

Utilities and Industrials met little demand and fluctuated narrowly. The United States government rail drew most attention, while foreign obligations showed firmness, especially the French republic issues, which advanced fractionally. Brazil 7 1/2% and Brazil Central Railways 7s also sold higher.

A good time to buy bonds

For some months past, we have been directing the attention of investors to the unusual values obtainable in the bond market. Below are reproduced some of the advertisements published by Halsey, Stuart & Co. recently in metropolitan newspapers, referring specifically to the investment opportunities in four of the principal bond classifications. We wish again to emphasize that NOW IS A GOOD TIME TO BUY BONDS

Industrial

Good values may be had in today's bond market—the general level of prices is now at its lowest point since November, 1926, and the bond market is generally regarded as being in a position to absorb a large volume of new issues. The present strengthening of the economy, as evidenced by the recent increase in the volume of business, is a factor in the upward movement of bond prices. It is a time to buy high-grade bonds, and the time to buy them is now.

Public Utility

Good values may be had in today's bond market—the general level of prices is now at its lowest point since November, 1926, and the bond market is generally regarded as being in a position to absorb a large volume of new issues. The present strengthening of the economy, as evidenced by the recent increase in the volume of business, is a factor in the upward movement of bond prices. It is a time to buy high-grade bonds, and the time to buy them is now.

Municipal

The yields offered by a representative list of municipal bonds have averaged high for this year for many months. It will be noted that the yields are in the 3 1/2% to 4 1/2% range, and are in line with the yields of the best municipal bonds. It is a time to buy high-grade municipal bonds, and the time to buy them is now.

Real Estate

In the present bond market, which offers the investor greater values than have been available at any time within a considerable period, high-grade real estate bonds, which are particularly desirable for their safety and the security of their principal, are available at a price which is a real bargain.

WHEAT CROP IN SOUTHWEST SEEN BELOW ESTIMATE

Late Buying Wave Sweeps
Prices Higher.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A material change in sentiment in the last few days as the result of a radical change in the outlook for the new winter wheat crop in the southwest, and reports from there indicated that a downward revision in estimated yields would have to be made. The market held within narrow limits during the early trading, but toward the last there was a wave of local and commission house buying, which swept values up 3/4c to 1c from the early low, and the finish was at net gains of 3/4c to 1c, July closing at $1.09 1/2c; September, $1.13 1/2c, and December, $1.18 1/2c.

While trade in corn was not large, there was rather active buying of the December delivery by commission houses, and the close was 1/4c higher, with July 92 1/2c to 93 1/4c, September, 94 1/2c to 95 1/4c, and December, 95 1/2c to 96 1/4c.

Trade Fears Crop Scarce.

Less optimistic crop comments on wheat were received during the day from Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Colorado, and Illinois, showing that the area of indicated deterioration covers an immense territory, and the states mentioned were estimated by the government June 1 report to have a prospective crop of 1,700,000 bu out of a total of 2,125,000 bu for the country. The excessive rains at the time the wheat was in the bloom seem to have been responsible for part of the damage, which is just showing up. Harvesting is making rapid progress in the southwest, and the grain has headed as far north as South Dakota.

Dry weather reports from the Dakotas also attracted attention, and northern and central Alberta are urgently in need of rain.

Wheat was strong and 1/2c higher, while Liverpool gained 1/4c. Export demand at the seaboard was slow, and sales were finally estimated at 200,000 to 400,000 bu. Hard winter wheat at the gulf was said to be about 3c per bu above a parity with Argentine.

Houses with eastern connections were fair buyers of wheat futures here at a time, while Winnipeg was a seller. Little was heard regarding farm relief, but the fact that the harvest has become a trend to restrict selling pressure, and offerings were light the greater part of the day.

December Corn Stronger.

Buying of December corn was of a good class, and there was also buying of that delivery against sales of July. Present weather conditions are favorable for the new crop, the latter has made a very late start, and it is 40 days later than normal in Missouri with planting still under way. The Iowa report indicated that the acreage would be reduced in parts of that state due to the late season. Country offerings to arrive were small, with outside markets outholding Chicago 1/4c to 3/4c per bu. Shipping sales aggregated 45,000 bu.

Prices averaged higher in sympathy with other grains with the December showing the most strength. Trade in rye was light, and small offers elsewhere had considerable influence. Minneapolis reports claimed that there has been considerable deterioration in the outlook in the north-west as compared with May 1.

THE UNKISSSED BRIDE

By BERTA RUCK

SYNOPSIS

Mr. Harrison, living in London and working for Dr. Rex Travers in Harley Street, is contacted by a letter from her fiancé, Geoffrey Ford, a well known novelist, asking to be released from the engagement. Preoccupied with her own trouble she fails to notice that Dr. Travers seems puzzled. Towards the end of the day he tells her that he has just received a great deal of money from an unscrupulous solicitor and he will be forced to leave the house in Harley Street.

Mr. Laska, a tenant, tells Rex that he has just been offered a practice with a comfortable villa in the south of France, which he cannot take on and he suggests that he recommend Rex for it. The only hitch to this plan is that they want a married doctor and Rex is a bachelor. To his partner's suggestion that he marry and take up the new post Rex turns a deaf ear.

Rex, who has been listening to the doctors' colloquy, suddenly sees a method of escape and he asks Dr. Travers if he will marry her on a business arrangement. The doctor is stunned by her suggestion and finally asks her why she made it. She tells him that she is in need of another job, although her real reason is to have Geoffrey Ford released from his engagement to another man.

The doctor broods over the change his altered circumstances will have on his young nephew and ward, Percival Arthur Fitzroy. Finally he decides to take Joy at her word and they enter into an agreement to marry on a strictly business basis. Immediately after the ceremony Rex and Percival Arthur go to the south of France. Joy enters Rex's house and Rex, and Percival Arthur has the time of his life. Joy and Rex become interested in each other. Then the doctor, Geoffrey and his mother, appear on the scene. Joy is taken to her first tea party.

INSTALLMENT XLVI
REX JOINS THE PARTY

Joy, unaware of the French woman's verdict, felt that so far the party was going well. In the midst of the babel of French, English, French-English and very-English-French, of jazz music rattled out at the piano by Rex Ford's boy friend, and of the conversation about how it was possible that she did not play bridge, shouted at her by one of the imported strangers, Joy was preoccupied with two questions.

One was how she could ever have thrilled to hear a door open and to know—without looking up—that it was Geoffrey Ford coming in?

The other was how soon would Rex come home. She was on edge for the sound of his step.

It was somebody else.

To Percival Arthur Fitzroy this party meant penance.

He was making amends to society for that Cornish lapse. He was wading through his best behavior and his girlo retup. He was wading, wading, wading. His hair had been combed with brilliantine. Even his hands were clean. Faultlessly he "handed round"; he "fetched." And behind the mask of meekness he listened to ladies making conversation to an imagined small boy addressed as "dear."

"Do you like playing cricket best, dear, or football?"

"You lucky boy, to be here with your uncle and your auntie! Still, I expect he misses his little school chums, don't you, dear? They are hard at work still, I suppose? (Yes, just one of those pink cakes!)"

"What are your favorite subjects? Arithmetic? . . . Dear, dear! But we all have to do things we don't like sometimes, don't we, dear? I suppose you don't care for poetry, either?"

"I do rather," announced in bravado Percival Arthur (who so oddly combined taste for Herrick with paper-backed shockers). "I've just found a rather decent poem about Lancashire. But I only remember the last line—"

"And all the dead dogs of Runcorn"

Go sailing out to sea."

After which he muttered hoarsely—"Hot Water? I'll get it!" and dashed off to the kitchen, in a flight like the chaffinch that whirled through a window for crumbs from his grandmother's tray. Then he fled back to hover, to keep eyes of birdlike brightness on the grownup men.

That awful Ford had moved, from squatting on the floor, to help him to a support. When he leaned forward to take a light from his host, her hand with an "O thanks, Joy," Percival Arthur glared.

Damned cheek, he thought. Darned life! Couldn't that chap say "Mrs. Travers"? A girl who was a "Mrs." oughtn't to be looked at as hard as this, that is. Not by men. They oughtn't to be allowed. Except her family, that she belonged to. . . . A sense of outraged possession drew down the brows, tightened the mouth, darkened the downy fair freckled face with an expression which, at thirty, marked a glance at the Fitzroy woman.

Didn't that Ford man know where he wasn't wanted?

There he stood, just shaking his head with the still smile instead of saying, "No, thanks." When Percival Arthur shoved the toast at him. Looking at Joy.

Edging up nearer to talk to her now? Saying, "Joy—"

Percival Arthur dug both fists into the pockets of his knife-creased flannels. Something scorching and loaded his chest. . . . He knew he was too damned young to do anything about this Ford blighter! Wasn't that the blighter's part? Couldn't he do a thing.

"And when am I going to have a word with you, Joy?" Geoffrey Ford suddenly asked, through the music's syncretized din.

Joy made room beside her for the graceful lounging creature who, less than a half a year ago, seemed the Olympian who conveyed a favor by even looking at this nymph.

"Any time," she said. "I wanted to speak to you, Geoffrey—"

"Did you," he murmured. "Did you? I terribly want to talk to you, Joy; only I was afraid you wouldn't want to."

The suddenly felt she hated having him to talk to her at all. She said hurriedly, "I want to write to you, and, somehow, didn't."

"Somehow one doesn't," Joy.

"What do you mean?"

"O, but nothing I mean matters any more," smiled Geoffrey Ford. "It was in that irritating plaintive mood, thought Joy, who had never before found Geoffrey's witlessness at all irritating. She said brusquely, "I only want to write to you and explain to you . . . about my marriage and being here; but now I've seen you, I suppose—"

"You suppose what?"

"Well, I suppose there's nothing more to be explained."

Geoffrey looked at her, glanced about the room, and sighed with unutterable meaning (though meaning what, he himself could not have said), "My things are explaining themselves, Joy."

Joy's color rose.

Percival Arthur, hovering, thought, "Must one stay in the room with the boy?"

Out!

Joy dismissed a hand forth, to stop the boy on the wing between the two tables and the door.

"What's the matter?" Must get a handkerchief!

"Split some cream on my trousers." Must get a handkerchief!

From her sleeve Joy pulled a small square of primrose yellow muslin. She found Geoffrey's witlessness at all irritating. She said brusquely, "I only want to write to you and explain to you . . . about my marriage and being here; but now I've seen you, I suppose—"

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!
That isn't such a bad picture, but it's not such a good one, either. It has a story with possibilities that have not been realized.

The tale told is of the devotion of a big brother for a younger one. The former has promised a dying mother that he will bring the latter up to be a gentleman. So, though an orphan, he gathers in the little fellow, the older boy keeps her word. After his fashion.

Tom is determined to send Bobby through college. To do this will take a heap of money. How is an untutored, friendless lad of the tenements to get this heap of money?

Tom takes the easiest way—and it is not the honest one.

Through an attorney he manages his brother's life, but Bobby and he never meet. Tom won't even possess a picture of the chap.

"Because," he tells the lawyer, "if I'd see him I'd want to talk to him and I don't want him to know anything about me in case I get into trouble. AND I don't want his picture on my premises for the same reason. I want his life to be the right one."

But Tom and Bobby DO meet—under the sort of circumstances the elder brother would have died to prevent. Much trouble follows—and I will let the picture tell you about that.

Cornelius Keefe and Arthur Rankin do well as the brothers. The attorney—said in the cast to be Richard Carle, which I think is not true—is pretty good, though he overdoes the comedy stuff. This is probably the director's fault. Direction and other players are only so-so.

Personally, I would not go far to view "Brothers."

See you soon.

WHEN WORDS FAIL YUH

Lindy and Bride
Watch the Tests for
Fool-Proof Plane

Mitchell Field, N. Y., June 19.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh came out of their honeymoon seclusion today, the place of their return to public life being an aviation field.

The flyer and his wife spent the morning here to witness the first tests in the $150,000 competition being held by the Daniel Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics in the hope of discovering a "fool proof" airplane.

The Lindberghs were sunbathed from three weeks on their honeymoon yacht. They posed for news pictures together and then with a group of officials of the Guggenheim fund.

The colonel expressed the opinion that although aviation was on a sound footing commercially, planes must be made far safer and easier to handle than at present before the day of universal flying could dawn.

Col. Lindbergh took up the first entry in the safety competition for a trial flight, with Harry Guggenheim, president of the fund, as passenger.

His only preparation for the flight, the first since his marriage, was to cast aside his blue serge coat and don a helmet and parachute.

After a short spin in the air, he landed and then took Mrs. Lindbergh up for a ride in a fast army biplane. They stayed in the air about 10 minutes, circling high about the Long Island fields.

The Lindberghs were in high spirits. When he went up for his first flight he left his wife sitting in their car and a couple of camera men who had come late and missed the posed picture began "shooting" Mrs. Lindbergh, who is the daughter of the American ambassador to Mexico.

Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's brother, drove along the edge of the field to a position between two hangars.

Prize Winning Students
Give Chicago Musical
College's 63d Program

At the sixty-third annual commencement exercises at the Chicago Musical college last night in the Auditorium theater, teachers' certificates, degrees and diplomas were awarded to 250 students.

Honorary degrees of Doctor of Music were conferred upon Henri Verbrughe, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, and W. O. Messner, composer and a leader in public school music work.

The program was furnished mainly by students who were prize winners in a series of elimination contests. Herbert Witherspoon, president of the school, addressed the graduates. The musical college's symphony orchestra, augmented by members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, played under the baton of Leon Sametini.

The Question.

Should the Chicago and Cook county police arrest motorists for driving too slow, as is done in Indiana?

The Answers.

Frank Smith, 1030 North Dearborn street, accountant.—It might be a good plan. The slow driver is one of the motorists' troubles, yet every annoyance that is eliminated helps just that much. The slow driver slows up traffic. The thoughtless, discourteous, rules breaking drivers also are among those who wouldn't be missed if eliminated.

Miss Anita Walsh, 6530 Woodlawn avenue, typist.—I think they should. There are few things that one has to contend with on the road more aggravating than a slow driver. They are something like the terrible "road hog." One can't do anything with them.

and it's only a personal loss to lose one's temper at them.

Clifford F. L. Mohr, teacher, South High school, Denver, Colorado.—Such arrests would be absolutely correct. The judgment of the driver, rather than the law, should govern the speed on all public highways.

And for city driving, I believe in through streets, your own speed, and no stop lights.

Miss Edna McDonald, 224 East Ontario street, secretary.—Absolutely. Slow drivers slow down traffic. They are the cause of accidents. Fast drivers may follow behind a moderately fast driver, but they will not drag along behind a piker driver. This ducking ahead of other drivers is a danger.

Lutheran Raps
Church Lobby
as Peril to U. S.Fears Tyranny Over Other Religious Groups.

Political lobbying "displayed by some church bodies" and proposed American recognition of the new papal state came in for attack yesterday at the opening session of the thirty-fourth triennial convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri synod. The convention, which will continue the rest of the month, is meeting at the Concordia Teachers' college, River Forest.

The persistent attempt of certain church bodies to shape and influence legislation constitutes a condition that is a menace to our system of government as well as a sad aberration from the divinely imposed object of the church of Christ," declared Rev. Paul Lindemann of St. Paul, Minn., editor of the American Lutheran.

These misguided churchmen explain their political activities with the claim that all the questions in which they are interested are moral questions. It is their first duty to preach the gospel. The government gives the church protection; therefore it should not mix in governmental affairs.

"It will be a sad day when American public life and politics will be directed by the imposition of the will of any church group, no matter how benevolent its intentions."

Earlier in the day Lutheran laymen adopted the resolution opposing American recognition of the papal state. The resolution, citing separation of church and state in America, was to be sent to President Hoover.

"The exchange of diplomatic representatives between the secular government and the papal court would constitute a violation of the principle," the resolutions continued. "We therefore resolve individually to exercise our influence to the utmost to prevent any arrangement that will tend to violate the aforementioned principle of separation of church and state."

Officials of the convention brought out yesterday that "the Lutheran church has no sympathy for the fashionable and popular mode of codding criminals or of ascribing criminal acts or tendencies to diseased adenoids and tonsils."

Organized efforts to abolish the death penalty are in particular condemned by the Lutheran church, the officials announced. The Lutheran church condemns the movements which would restrict the force of the law and facilitate the evasion of its penalties," the officials said.

A general revolt of sectarian college students, such as recently swept Des Moines university, was predicted by Dr. W. T. Paul, president of Valparaiso university, "unless the fundamentalists give ground to the modernists."

In a division of faith in which fundamentalists are pitted against modernists the former are the more likely to yield as they are in the minority, he said, but he said they do not, he foresees a break in the church ranks.

Fred Fiedler, Chicago, president of the convention, in his report at the opening session, spoke of the normal progress of the church during the last three years including a gain in membership and an increase in missions.

The appropriations committee at the afternoon session made recommendations for the expenditure of $8,350,000 for the next year's program. This includes a budget of $6,000,000 for education and missions, and $2,350,000 for the building fund.

Honor Unknown Soldier

PARIS, June 19.—Two hundred and fifty American Lutherans, mostly from Chicago and Minneapolis, placed a wreath of roses on the tomb of France's Unknown Soldier today.

The Rev. N. M. Tivisker of Minneapolis recalled the several thousand Lutherans who fell in the allied ranks. Following his remarks, the Rev. J. C. E. Preus and Miss Leslie Alberts of Minneapolis placed the flowers upon the tomb.

Members of the party included E. B. Knutson and Dr. Martin Anderson of Chicago, Dr. J. A. Jansen, professor of surgery at the University of Minnesota; Dr. J. A. Aagaard, president of the United Norwegian church of America.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Funeral services for Philip Le Fèvre Eiting, erroneously announced for today in Tuesday's Tribune, were held Tuesday in the Fourth Presbyterian church.

HONORED TODAY

DR. MARIA CASTELLANI.

The Alliance of Business and Professional Women of Chicago will give a luncheon today at the Chicago Woman's club for Dr. Maria Castellani of Rome, Italy. Dr. Castellani was the first woman actuary in her country and the first woman to hold a directive degree in an Italian state group, and is at present editor-in-chief of Le Assicurazioni Sociali, official organ of the Casa Nazionale. She was educated at Italian universities, at Bryn Mawr college, and at Girton college, England. She was the founder of the Italian Business and Professional Women's club in Rome, and president of the Italian club in New York. She is a member of the National League of Women Voters, the International Suffrage alliance, and the League of Women's Trade Unions.

Miss Mabel Leslie, speaking to the International Suffrage alliance, but as the secretary of the Women's Trade Union League of New York, declared "every trade union in America that has women members unanimously favors special legislation for women in industry."

The idea of not having protective legislation for women also was attacked at the meetings here called both by the Social-Democrats (Socialists) and by the communists.

Those meetings were addressed by Frau Adele Schreier-Kreiger, vice president of the suffrage alliance, and by Miss Mollie Fay Carroll of Baltimore, professor of economics at Goucher college.

Prof. Carroll told her audience "both President Hoover and his opponent spoke and wrote in favor of protecting industrial women in the last campaign" and declared that although she spoke officially only for the National League of Women Voters she could report that statistics showed "not one voice in American universities of the first or second class standing being raised against such protection."

She said American local trade unions and the American Federation of Labor were for such laws.

Frau Schreier-Kreiger called the American National Woman's party, which is allied with the open door idea, "very radical and constantly trying to influence the American congress to rescind protective laws."

Despite this criticism the open door international suffrage alliance, and its officers today, Mrs. Ruth Van Dine, and Miss Christy Macmillan of England president.

Veterans Parade Over
Field at Gettysburg
Where They Fought

Gettysburg, Pa., June 19.—[U.P.]—Parading across the field where nearly three-quarters of a century ago many of them fought and hundreds of their comrades died, the thin blue line of veterans of the Pennsylvania department of the Grand Army of the Republic tonight paraded across the battlefield "whitened" of Gettysburg battle.

The parade of veterans and the review by the veterans of the marching ranks of associated veteran organizations was held under the twilight skies in order to save the veterans from the intense sun.

It was just such a day as this—sweltering under a blazing sun—when many of the same veterans fought for hours through the trampled, blood stained wheat to hold back the gray wave of Confederates.

This may be the last annual encampment for these aged veterans in blue, who still attempt to march with military precision, for death is rapidly despoiling their ranks.

Business sessions will be held tomorrow to conclude the encampment.

Women Debate on Protective
Laws for ThemNew Faction Opposes
Such Legislation.

BERLIN, June 19.—(AP)—The Woman's International Suffrage alliance today adopted a resolution favoring the introduction in various countries of a system of government "family allowances," making provision for the cost of rearing children otherwise than by the father's wages.

The resolution especially urged "that allowances for children should be paid to the mother."

Miss Ruth Morgan and Miss Dell Sherwin of the United States and Miss Paulina Luisi of Uruguay and Miss Bertha Lutz of Brazil were nominated for the new governing board of the alliance. It is the present board's special wish that hereafter the board will have two members from the United States.

Mme. Marguerite Thibert, a delegate and representative of the international labor office at Geneva, attacked the two day old women's open door international organization as its opposition to protective legislation, particularly that sponsored by the Geneva labor office.

Mme. Thibert declared the policy of the new organization now meeting in Berlin was not supported in fact by working women of the world. Emphatic support of legislative protection for women in industry came from most of the delegates today, and the Suffrage alliance decided not to take any different policy toward such laws until 1932.

Miss Mabel Leslie, speaking to the International Suffrage alliance, but as the secretary of the Women's Trade Union League of New York, declared "every trade union in America that has women members unanimously favors special legislation for women in industry."

The idea of not having protective legislation for women also was attacked at the meetings here called both by the Social-Democrats (Socialists) and by the communists.

Those meetings were addressed by Frau Adele Schreier-Kreiger, vice president of the suffrage alliance, and by Miss Mollie Fay Carroll of Baltimore, professor of economics at Goucher college.

He Wants Her Time, but Says Nothing About Marriage

BY DORIS BLAKE

Bunny is 34. She has been going with a man ten years her senior for three years. She has known him since she was 16. She says when she was younger she led the regular flapper life, had loads of boy friends, but waited with this result.

The 34 year suitor is making $75 a week. He has a good position and a car. He has made her beautiful gifts and taken her all over. He has never mentioned marriage to her, but demands that she refuse to go out with other men. Bunny doubts if she can consider herself engaged or whether she ever will be in such a position. The suitor has stressed on several occasions his stand about never marrying until he has $5,000 saved. Bunny says if he has a thousand saved at this minute, he's lucky.

"To tell the honest truth," says Bunny, "I'd prefer marrying a man making $40 a week and working a week and a half after marriage myself, but be happy, than to lose all my sentiment for some one who measures everything on a money basis. Our mothers never waited until they had a certain sum and they certainly got along."

Marrying a man making $40 a week and continuing with the job after marriage has advantages over marrying where sentiment is swayed by money only—and believe that as something who measures everything on a money basis. Our mothers never waited until they had a certain sum and they certainly got along."

Any girl who holds that you don't have to wait for the accumulation of a large sum could bring into a union with an alive and ambitious young

One Sausage P. P.

It was on eastern menus two years ago that I first saw "P. P." which means per person. It might mean per portion, and for summer time we recommend that the portion be rather small when it comes to certain meats which at any time are more valuable as a spicy accompaniment than as a central viand. And these meats are chiefly the sausages.

How do you prepare your smoked sausages? I suspect that there are a greater variety of ways of preparing them than ever got into cook books. When I want to use a smoked Thüringer or a Frankfurt I allow one per person. The sausages are first washed in cold water, dried, dropped into boiling water for one minute and then sliced in quarter inch slices and fried or sautéed. A good deal of fat will try out of a Thüringer, so it is best perhaps to start it in a cold pan without any fat, and then to heat it slowly, turning the slices when the pan has become hot, when they will usually be rather crisp on the cooked side, and almost cooked so that they can be briefly finished on the other side in a hot pan.

These little slices of sausage make a spicy flavoring for a summer meal of mashed potato and some fried apples, or pineapple, or even banana, when these other fruits are not to be obtained. And have you tested forty-a-week-earner more promises of future joy to both herself and him than she could hope to extract from the bachelor in his thirties with set and rather distorted opinions and prejudices.

After three years monopolizing a girl's company without mention of marriage to her, it's time she did begin to look around for brighter prospects.

We took a long drive into the country on Decoration day. Besides our little son we had with us his three girl cousins, Betty, June and Nancy, aged 4, 5 and 7. As we drove along I noticed that Teddy was unusually quiet.

"What's the matter son?" I inquired. "You're still as a mouse!" Teddy glanced at his little cousins chatting merrily. "W—well," he replied hesitatingly. "You can't talk much when you get a lotta women along!" V. R.

Asks for a Screen. "I wonder if any one of your readers has a folding screen they don't need. I am a woman, alone in the world, and cannot afford to buy one. There is a sink in my room and a screen would help hide it. "A. A."

Request for Godey Print. "I am anxious to secure some old Godey fashion prints and I have been wondering if you could help me get them. Perhaps a reader will have one no longer wanted. Mrs. O. B." One of these ever popular prints so attractively used in decorating would please our correspondent very much.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Wedding Ring Too Tight. Two days before my wedding I went to a gymnasium to play baseball. While playing I caught the ball awkwardly and sprained the third and fourth fingers of my left hand and consequently they became very swollen. On my wedding day, when the time came for the ring to be placed on my finger, it would not go on. The minister whispered, "Put it on." I whispered back in confusion, "I can't." So the ring stayed half on for several days, to my great embarrassment. G. G. S.

Governor's

BY FARKE B.
(Chicago Tribune Photo)
Springfield, Ill., June 19.—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson today showed up at the general assembly. He announced that he "reluctantly" the enactment of the Chicago sanitary district nonreferendum bill, which spells a $35,000,000 property owners during years. He refused to sign the bill, which he said that he would file with the secretary of state with the understanding that it would be vetoed either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature. There had been no veto either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature. There had been no veto either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature.

Winds Up A
His announcement was made at the legislature. A substantial number of bills were on the agenda, but he might have to postpone the adjournment. He said that he would not sign the bill, which he said that he would file with the secretary of state with the understanding that it would be vetoed either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature. There had been no veto either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature.

Between times the his attention to some of the bills still waiting. He signed some two bills, which he said that he would file with the secretary of state with the understanding that it would be vetoed either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature. There had been no veto either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature.

Others were the bills, which require approval before they become law. He said that he would not sign the bill, which he said that he would file with the secretary of state with the understanding that it would be vetoed either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature. There had been no veto either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature.

Gov. Emmerson's
action with the Chicago district bonding bill, which he said that he would file with the secretary of state with the understanding that it would be vetoed either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature. There had been no veto either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature.

"Because it is that the people who should have the right to all public bonds have considered the provisions of the sanitary district bond act, which makes it impossible for a sanitary district to issue bonds without the approval of the people. He said that he would not sign the bill, which he said that he would file with the secretary of state with the understanding that it would be vetoed either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature. There had been no veto either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature.

"There is some approval of the bill, but I am not fully satisfied with the requirements of the referendum, nor do I believe that the law is sufficient to protect the provisions of the bill. He said that he would not sign the bill, which he said that he would file with the secretary of state with the understanding that it would be vetoed either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature. There had been no veto either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature.

Other consid-
add weight to the bill. The money all bonds issued must be for certain purposes, and he said that he would not sign the bill, which he said that he would file with the secretary of state with the understanding that it would be vetoed either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature. There had been no veto either on the money measure, or on the basis of the veto ax by the legislature.
